School Committee race new candidate

Bodnar for Schools

By JAYNE W. MILLER
News Editor

WILMINGTON - The Wilmington School Committee race bounced back up to six candidates for three seats on the seven-member board last week when Michael Bodnar pulled papers Friday.

Bodnar also ran for School Committee in 2011 in a five-way contest for two open seats facing then-incumbent Leslee Quick, Ginny Bonish, Karl Sagal, and Manny Mulas. Bonish and Quick won that year. Mulas joined the board in 2012 with M.J.

Byrnes.

In his 2011 bid, Bodnar ran on an anti-new Wilmington High School platform, having voted against the feasibility study at Town Meeting in 2010. He did support renovations or an addition, two options rejected over the course of the feasibility study as being disruptive to current students and not able to solve the unique challenges presented in the older structure.

Bodnar also pushed for more science and technology in the high school curriculum.

The occupants of the SUV, a 43-year-old man and his 12-year-old son, both of Wilmington, had to be extracted from the vehicle by rescue crews before they were transported by ambulance to Lawrence General Hospital with non-life threatening injuries. Reports indicate leg and pelvis injuries. Their identities are not being released at this time.

The body of the Andover

The crash resulted in the closing of Route 125 for more than two and a half hours to allow for rescue operations, collision reconstruction, and removal of debris and vehicles.

Town to overhaul Middle School schedule

Disappointing MCAS scores drive the change

By JON BISHOP
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON—The administration from Wilmington Middle School on Wednesday appeared before the School Committee in order to give a presentation on a potential new schedule change, which was prompted by below-average MCAS scores.

"We have had a challenge over the past few years at Wilmington Middle School," said Superintendent Joanne Benton.

From August through December, members of the Wilmington school community held a twenty hour 'think tank' to address this issue, exploring ways to overhaul the master schedule. The exercise included visiting middle schools in Reading, Stoneham, Ipswich, and Westford.

This was a change-focused group.

"Certainly, our AYP success—not success—in math and language arts was a reason why we took a look at what we could do better," said Christine McMenimen, who is the principal of Wilmington Middle School.

2012 scores showed improvement, however. This, according to McMenimen, will "help close the gap."

"But we still wanted to be able to do more," she said.

McMenimen said Wilmington Middle School currently stands at level two. They want to reach level one.

Benton tasked them with increasing instructional minutes in mathematics and language arts, and they had to maintain a comprehensive program of studies for middle school students.

"We really want to make sure kids still have exposure to many different content areas, separate from the core subjects, so they can really become well-rounded," McMenimen said.

They proposed the following: a sixty minute increase in core subjects, better connections with students, the incorporation of study skills and organizational support, year-long physical education, interdisciplinary pods in math and science and language arts and social studies, flexible scheduling, and a waterfall format, which means that there will be an opportunity to learn at different times of the day.

The new schedule will still be on a six-day cycle. All grades will begin the day with an advisory period. It will allow for "trust building" between classmates and faculty.

Lunch will shift. Foreign language will be reduced to two times per cycle. Performing arts will meet two times a cycle, as will physical education. Students will now have ninety minutes for unified arts, which was reduced from ninety-eight minutes. Core academic classes will meet for 240 minutes per day.

The advantages, according to McMenimen, "very much align with the priorities from the think tank."

"Almost identically," she said.

Robert Hayes expressed concern over the changes in the foreign language instruction but said he is "certainly inclined to support" the proposal.

MJ Byrnes was concerned with the shifting lunch times. She worried that some students might not be able to adjust. She also wondered as to why there were no parents involved in the think tank.

At the end of the question and answer period, Benton reminded everyone of the overall purpose of this: "Students are not performing as they should."

She said that she was "embarrassed" by the scores.

School Committee Chairwoman Peggy Kane said that she found the presentation "enlightening."

"We're all very grateful you've done all this work," she said.

School Committee race

lum while also maintaining a strong foundation in the basics of education: reading, writing, and math. Bodnar also advocated for more active inclusion of the public at School Committee meetings, through an open citizens' forum.

The remaining five candidates are vying for three available seats on the seven-member board. Candidates include incumbents Margaret Kane and Kathleen Carroll, and newcomers Julie Broussard, Jennifer Spear, and Donna Leone.

Jennifer Spear and Donna Leone returned their papers this week and are certified. Kane, Carroll, and Broussard also have already returned their nomination papers.

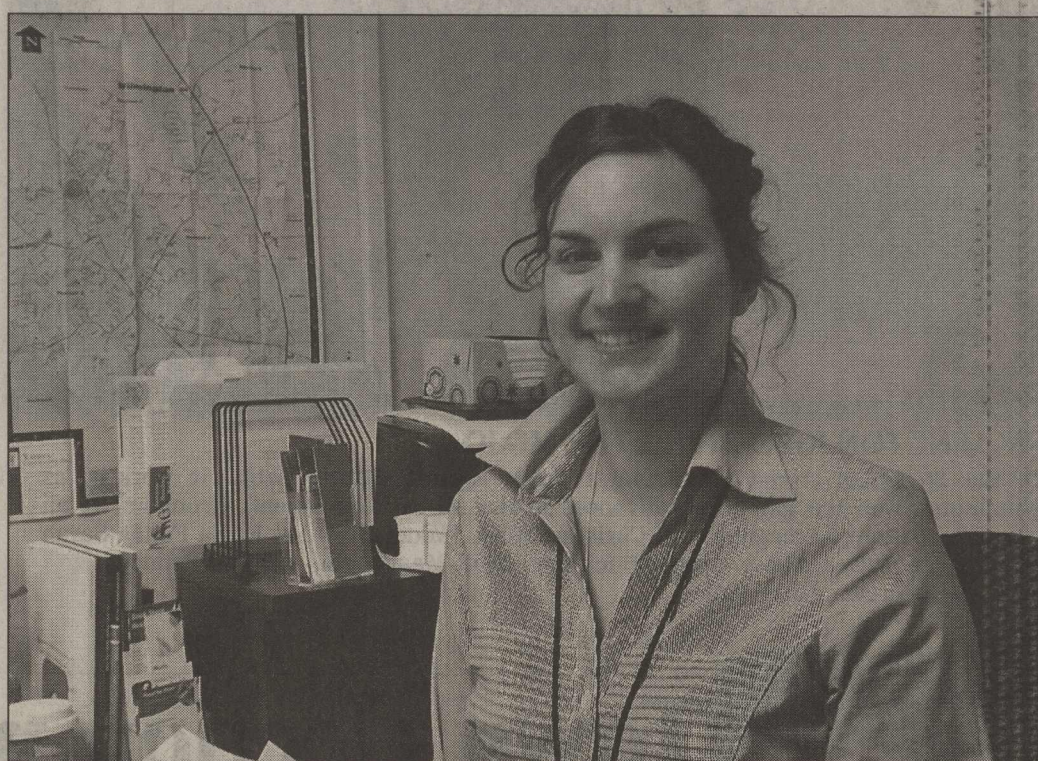

In last week's Crier two issues emerged as priorities for candidates, specifically special education and administrative changes at Wilmington High School with the departure of long-time principal Eric Tracy at the end of this school year. Tracy has accepted a principal position for the Hamilton-Wenham High School.

Both Spear and Leone have one child receiving special education services. Further, Jennifer DeFeo, who decided not to pursue a seat last week, is a special education advocate by profession. Though DeFeo decided not to run in the end, three candidates identifying special education as a campaign issue raises the level of conversation about the programming and results found in the district. M.J. Byrnes also ran with special education as one of her campaign issues.

All nominations papers must be returned by Friday, March 8, 2013, 5 p.m. to the town clerk's office.

The last day for residents to vote in the town election and state primary race (on April 30) is April 5 in the Town Clerk's office which will be open until 8 pm.

New Face, New Perspective in Library

By DAN HALL
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - Wilmington Memorial Library is not your grandparents' library. Sure, WML still deals in books and keeps the place relatively quiet, standard library procedure, but there is much more going on than most of the public realizes. This is a problem, because the library is a tremendous resource that the town of Wilmington is just not using to its fullest. That was a big reason why Tina Stewart decided to bring on a new staff member and take the library in an entirely new direction.

You have probably not heard of a marketing librarian, unless you happen to be a library professional at a number of forward thinking and progressive institutions. A marketing librarian is a strange amalgam, a combination of your classical library professional and someone with a salesman's savvy and a graphic artist's eye for detail and presentation. A marketing librarian takes the arcane secrets of the library, along with the newest additions and everything in between, and makes the public aware of it. Only a select few places have marketing librarians on staff, and Wilmington Memorial Library is on this very limited and prestigious list.

Her name is Joanna Breen, and she has been described as "the perfect fit for this position." Joanna, who grew up in Cambridge taking advantage of the excellent library opportunities there, has studied at Simmons College's Master of Library Science program. She also has a background in art and graphic design, having studied those fields in Santa Fe, New Mexico. Joanna's mission is simply stated, but difficult in application—how does she make the public aware of the great opportunities at the library, and more specifically, how does she draw the missing generation into the library and all that it has to offer?

This missing generation—those who are not baby boomers who grew up with the traditional idea of a books and quiet library and not children brought to the library by their parents—are the most difficult generation to tap into. While this has always been the case, a sharper decline in participation from this group had occurred with the rise of the internet. Joanna Breen believes that if libraries want to win back this demographic, they will need to transform the very idea of what a library is.

"Just because you can find it on the internet does not mean that the library is not an incredible research tool. Actually, with the internet the library is more effective than ever," said Joanna. With librarians trained on high tech database studies and with extreme familiarity with the ins and outs of the internet, research you might have been able to do at home can be done more quickly and with a professional level of depth at the library.

"The library is also a place for the community to come together. This place is not just books and movies. We have events, book readings, workshops. We have museum passes and video games. It's a tremendous resource, and I just want to make everyone aware of it."

When asked what she found most notable about Wilmington, Joanna mentioned the sense of community. "I feel like Wilmington is a place where community matters. I just want the library to be a more central part of that community."

Environmental Notes

by George R. Allan

Bottle Water Mania

I am not the shopper in my family. Let's make that perfectly clear up front. So when I make my biennial visit to our local supermarket and wander aimlessly through the store, I am in awe of the choice and variety of products we have here in America. And then as I turn down one of the aisles, I am overcome by a tsunami of bottled water. Can you believe there is an entire aisle for bottled water? We are talking about basic H<sub>2</sub>O. Water.

When you look closer at shelf after shelf of water in different types of bottles and sizes, you are struck by the designer labels. Most of the labels show a peaceful vista of mountains and/or the proverbial babbling brook. They are obviously designed to give you the impression that you are buying purity and making a healthy choice. The subliminal message being conveyed is that if it is in a plastic bottle, it is better than what comes from your tap.

Even the names of the bottled water are selected to enhance the message. The marketers tout the sources of the water as "spring fed" or "born from glaciers". You can buy brands such as Ice Canyon, Crystal Springs and Crystal Geyser. There are over 100 different brands on the market nationwide.

I continued my label investigation undaunted by strange stares from other shoppers. The prices varied depending on the company and the size of the plastic bottle. Using the consumer friendly unit price provided for each product, I would say that an average price was in the 2 to 5 cents per ounce range. That translates to $2.56 to $6.40 per gallon for bottled water. Wilmington's tap water costs less than half a penny per gallon; or put another way, for the $2.56 spent for bottled water you get over 500 gallons of tap water.

One interesting fact that many consumers are not aware of is that much of the bottled water sold in the U.S. is only treated municipal tap water. Some estimates place that total at 40 percent. For example, take a look at a bottle of Aquafina, which is bottled in Ayer, Mass. The label states that it originates from a public water supply.

Of course I understand that some consumers buy bottled water for the container, not necessarily the contents. When you are out running or just out with the kids, you cannot beat the convenience. And that is OK; you are paying for portability. But don't think you are getting a better product. Of course, if you lived in Concord, Mass., you would not even have this convenience since the town recently banned single serving plastic water bottles. Maybe this is the start of a revolution in bottled water.

Returning from my exhaustive research at the supermarket, I decided to follow-up on the Internet by checking out individual bottlers' websites. Here you can really appreciate the creative marketing prose used to describe basic H<sub>2</sub>O in a plastic bottle. It is interesting and sometimes even comical. Here is one of my favorites:

"After running through our proprietary process, our pristine water becomes a finished product that is pH balanced, micro-structured, super oxygenated and crystalline mineral enhanced pure mountain water."

That sure sounds like super water to me. I guess that justifies the $3.00 per gallon cost.

The bottled water market is a multi-billion dollar business. Many large corporations have a share of this profitable market. Pepsi bottles Aquafina, Coca-Cola has Dasani and Nestle produces Poland Springs water. Recently, concern over the environmental impacts of bottling water in plastic containers and then wasting gas to truck it all of the country has shined the spotlight on the industry. Several states and many cities nationwide have banned government spending on bottled water. Some universities are following suit. For example the University of Vermont recently became the first public university in New England to ban the sale of bottled water on campus.

In the final analysis, like many things in the marketplace, you need to be an educated consumer. If you want to pay for the convenience of bottled water in your car or in the kids' lunch box, that's fine. Just don't do it thinking bottled water is cleaner or greener than tap water. It is not.

Don't buy into the message on a bottle.

Spring Fever

With 45-degree afternoons and snow banks that look like melted wax, I'm itchy for spring. Like I can smell snow in the hours before a storm, these days I can smell the buds growing on the trees and sap rising.

Ok, not really.
This time of year I pull out the landscaping books, observe the sad state of affairs of my plantings and start dreaming of new gloves, trowels, and the nitrogen content of my compost. My hands itch to dig in the soil to turn dirt into something beautiful.

Spring also marks the beginning of 5K season. With our clocks springing forward Sunday, morning runs should be brighter and a touch warmer (barring more snow). Exercising outdoors, whether walking, running, or gardening, offers an invigorating way to connect with nature as well. Plus, there is no better way to get ready for your first or fiftieth 5K than to get outside and pound some pavement.

I started a Couch to 5K program last year, running (walking mostly) in the Meghan McCarthy Road Race (this year slated for Sunday March 24). By the end of the season 6 months later I ran the entire way in the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce 8th Annual Road Race. What a blast.

Other than the requisite running shoes and earbuds that don't fall out, the most important thing for a training regimen is your workout playlist. I've reached out to locals in Tewksbury and Wilmington for their top songs for exercising - new songs and classic throwbacks alike may inspire you to try something different for your workout or to just get out there and do it.

A note on safety: please be sure to stay on sidewalks where you can, otherwise walk/run against traffic so you can see what is coming, and be sure to wear bright colors and reflective materials for visibility (I wear a bright pink hat and fitness fleeces, and green shoes. Wave if you see me). Exercising at night or twilight makes it hard for drivers to see you. Cross in cross walks and don't take unnecessary risks.

Below are the top songs for some local folks you may know. I've also uploaded this list to Spotify titled: Town Crier Spring Fever.

--MJ Byrnes, Wilmington School Committee

I am always put into the "spring" and "summer" frame of mind when I hear any song by Jimmy Buffett. AC/DC's "Shoot to Thrill" gets me psyched about Wilmington High School AND Boston Bruins Playoff Hockey. And it's hard NOT to get out of my chair when Van Halen from the early 80's is playing. But, when it's time for some relaxation there's still no one better than Frank Sinatra.

Support group presents:

March-A-Pella

WILMINGTON - Back again, the Wilmington High School Choral and Theatre Support Groups (WHS C.A.T.s) presents their fifth annual A Cappella concert - March-A-Pella V, to be held on Friday, March 8, 2013 at 7 pm at The Wilmington Middle School.

March-A-Pella is an all a cappella music event featuring High School, College and Professional a cappella groups. If you have never seen an a cappella concert, you must come and see what an amazing talent singing a cappella is.

In addition to singing words, a cappella singers emulate instrumentation by reproducing the melody with their vocal cords, in other words, there are no instruments!

This Year's performers are: Wilmington High School's - Soundscape, UMass Lowell's - Hawkapella, Suffolk University's - Ramifications, and Endicott College's - Harmonic Overtones.

Featured Performers are:

Boston's Own Semi Professional group Fermata Town.

Fermata Town is comprised of 13 singers, who bring an energetic and fresh sound to the stage. They are a semi-professional coed a cappella group, based out of Boston, Mass.,

And headlining this year's concert once again, Professional Recording Artist Ball in the House

Ball in the House is 5 Guys, 5 Voices, and a sound that will astound and amaze you, THAT'S IT... a review from the Boston Globe put it very succinctly - "Ball in the House has everything you would expect to find in a successful pop/rock band...the only thing it doesn't have is INSTRUMENTS!!!"

Tickets are just $10 for adults in advance, $15 at the door. Students are $8. For more information, go to Wilmingtoncats.org.

All proceeds from the show go towards Scholarships and additional funding for the Performing Arts of Wilmington High School.

Letters to the editor

Wentworth for Selectman

Dear Editor,

I am writing in support of Jim Wentworth who is seeking election to the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen.

Jim has been a great supporter and resident of the Tewksbury community. He is a strong proponent for our schools, education and small businesses. Jim supported the new high school project in town by being a strong voice and active participant of the new Tewksbury High School Community Outreach Team.

Jim is a small business owner. He understands the struggles and challenges that go along with owning a business and thus, very effectively represents, supports, and advocates for business owners in Tewksbury. As an owner of a business that focuses on developing leaders in organizations, Jim will bring strong and unique leadership skills to the Board of Selectmen.

Jim is a past member of the Economic Development Committee during which he pledged his support to Tewksbury and its economic development. In addition, Jim was also a member of the Town Manager Screening Committee and as has consistently demonstrated an interest in being involved and making a positive difference.

Jim possesses a strong sense of family, high integrity, is a local voice, and is in touch with the needs and interests of the residents. He is extremely approachable and overall a very likeable person and proven community leader. I support Jim Wentworth in his quest for election to the Board of Selectmen and urge the voters of Tewksbury to cast a vote for him on Saturday April 6, 2013.

Sincerely,
Brian Dick
Tewksbury, MA

Open letter to Sen. Bruce Tarr

Dear Senator,

My name is M.J. Byrnes, and I am a Member and the legislative representative for the Wilmington School Committee, Wilmington, MA.

It is imperative to school districts that public education funding remains to be at least levelly funded. Districts have continually been creative in their budgetary planning to meet the high level of quality programs and supports for our teachers and students, and to continue to strengthen those programs to meet the state's unfunded mandates, as well as our own goals to strengthen and enhance our educational goals and needs. We are at a critical time in our country's economic 'health', and public education can't afford to take huge risks with budget cuts, especially to those mandates that are under funded according to state statutes and laws (e.g. Regional transportation & Circuit Breaker funding). Politicians must actively work together to solve these issues in a timely manner.

Though Wilmington continues to be fiscally conservative and creative in our budget preparation and spending, these proposed federal funding cuts to public education and special education programs, and the effect on Governor Patrick's budget proposal, will significantly impact our district and risk the quality of our programs for 21st century learners.

Already working through a mid-year budget short fall because of Governor Patrick's 9C cuts, Wilmington has been able to maintain the quality of our educational program that our students deserve and our community expects from us. It is especially important that Special Education funding/Circuit Breakers and Title 1 items be funded to the highest level possible, so we can continue to strengthen our programs to support students who depend on these programs for academic success and meet State requirements of proficiency.

Cuts will also compromise our ability to meet student's education potential, Title 1, Special Education needs, and meet IDEA (Individuals with Disabilities Act) and FAPE (Free and Appropriate Public Education). By not supplying sufficient funding districts in general, and Wilmington specifically, will face larger financial impacts through referrals to out-of-district programs rather than creating stronger programs within our schools.

I respectfully request and urge you to lend a strong voice in the discussion of Governor Patrick's Budget proposal, and am asking you to strongly urge your fellow colleagues to support the following proposals:

-Support the Governor's budget proposal to increase Chapter 70 funding by $226 million dollars, ensuring all Districts are funded at foundation levels.

- Support his recommendation that the cap for Out of District Special Education is increased by $25,000 to more fully compensate District's special education departments.

- To see restoration of full level funding to the Circuit Breaker Accounts, which were subjected to a mid-year reduction of $12 million dollars.

- Support his proposal for the increase of funding to Literacy programs, early Education, and Higher Education initiatives.

Please feel free to contact me with any questions at (978) 994-5946.

Sincerely,
M.J. Byrnes
Legislative Representative
Wilmington School Committee

It's time for the 83 year old man listed in last week's police log to have his car keys taken away. His 4th OUI charge!!! It's wrong at any age to let it go to that many offenses! To our law enforcement-Please don't wait until someone is killed to take his keys.

Support for Wentworth

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in support of Jim Wentworth and his campaign for a seat on the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen.

As the Vice Chairman on the most recent Town Manager Screening Committee, I was able to see first-hand just how passionate Jim was in choosing the best candidate that could help lead our town. He was a member on the Economic Development Committee and is consistently delivering new ideas and thoughts about how we can grow the commercial tax base in our town. Jim's dedication and hard work was instrumental in educating the residents and ultimately getting out the vote that resulted in the building of the new Tewksbury Memorial High

Giving back is nothing new for Jim and his family. Along with his wife Kelly, they have run the Treats for Troops program that sends care packages to our troops overseas. Jim's oldest daughter, Katelyn, just completed her second successful Teens for Jeans drive that collected and donated 182 pairs of jeans. The ideals and values of continuously giving back to the community in numerous different capacities is a trademark of the Wentworth family.

Please join me in casting a vote on April 6th, 2013 for Jim Wentworth to the Tewksbury Board of Selectmen.

Sandy Barbeau
Tewksbury, MA

Thank you, Bob

Dear Editor

I am a senior living in North Wilmington and I would like to take a moment to thank my neighbor and friend Bob Lewis for his help during these winter storms. During the blizzard a few weeks back I was snowed in and unable to even open my doors to let my dogs out. With the driving ban in effect no one was able to get to me including the police who were obviously very busy with more pressing issues than mine.

Bob came over and shovelled me out of my predicament. He regularly snow blows our fire hydrant and generally keeps an eye out in the neighborhood. I wish knew more people like him.

He is selfless and considerate and always has a smile, so thank you, Bob for being a wonderful neighbor and a great friend.

Pacific Grove Restaurant opens

At former Royal Dynasty site

WILMINGTON - The Pacific Grove recently opened their doors at the site once occupied by the Royal Dynasty restaurant in Lucci's Plaza in Wilmington. Customers are pleasantly surprised when the walk in and see all the renovations the current owner has made.

While the entire restaurant has a fresh new look, that is not all that is new. The menu of Chinese specialties has been greatly expanded and includes not only Japanese cuisine but also a wide variety of Sushi.

New owner, Victor Hui of North Reading, is excited about this venture and says, "My wife, May, and I have been in the restaurant business for more than twenty years. We have owned the China Cuisine in North Reading for ten years. We both love the restaurant business. We consider ourselves very lucky to have found such a good location for our second restaurant when the former Royal Dynasty owners retired."

The Pacific Grove will gladly accept gift certificates for the Royal Dynasty up until March 31, 2013 and they are offering a free appetizer with an order of $20 or more both in the dining room and with a take-out order.

Victor acknowledges that to open a new restaurant is a challenge even with restaurant experience, "That is why we are having a soft opening before we announce our grand opening. We want to make certain that our cuisine and service meet our customer's expectations and satisfaction. In the restaurant business we have to make improvements all the time. That is why we have very loyal customers at the China Cuisine in North Reading. We hope to apply the same concept at the Pacific Grove in Wilmington."

"We want to thank everyone who has given us the opportunity to serve them thus far. My wife and I hope that our customers enjoy the food and give us an opportunity to serve them again." You can reach the Pacific Grove by calling 978-658-0080 and they are open every day of the week. Visit their web site at www.PacificGroves.net for more information and to view their bright new interior.

She is currently employed at a nail salon in the Rockingham Mall in Salem, NH. Formerly she worked as a server at a Vietnamese cuisine restaurant.

Khoa's teachers have told her that is a very hard worker and always tries her very best. Khoa studies harder than most students for the reason that English is her second language. She appreciates the USA so much because in her country it was hard to afford things.

What impresses nominating staff member Annmarie McCormick is Khoa's hard work ethic which she has demonstrated as an intern in the main office of the High School for two consecutive years. Khoa took her internship very seriously with a strong focus on helping parents, greeting visitors at the reception area and assisting to keep the High School office running very smoothly. She balances achieving good grades and working many hours outside of school as well. Ms. McCormick states that Khoa displays leadership, takes charge and is caring, friendly, and outgoing to her colleagues.

Fans behaved badly

Administrative response working, behavior improved at last game

ers began to lash out with crude and vulgar remarks, which persisted throughout the game. This behavior continued to degrade eventually reaching such a point where supporters began to throw objects onto the ice itself, creating an unsafe situation for the players and risking damage to machinery used to maintain the ice. Items included hats and small strands of plastic beads.

Some minors consumed alcohol, and beer cans were reportedly discovered in bathrooms. The parents of one student were called to collect him due to alcohol consumption, and another student went to the hospital in an ambulance - and Principal Eric Tracy went with him.

The Crier spoke with Tracy this week about the fan behavior, which he quickly tamped down Monday morning, delivering a lecture over the speakers during morning announcements.

Tracy began his remarks Monday with praise for all the achievements of competing teams including the cheerleaders, girls' basketball, runners and a shot-putter at the New England Regional tournament, Model UN, Debate Club, and the drama program. Then he said, "All our teams train hard, work hard, but our fans at Friday night's game let us down."

Tracy explained that WHS leadership always talks to kids about how their public behavior reflects not only on themselves, but also on their school, and the community.

"They were not on their best behavior. I was embarrassed and it was embarrassing for the community as a whole," said Tracy, characterizing the antics as

"unsportsmanlike."

Tracy confirmed that students were drinking and two students were visibly intoxicated by the end of the game. He made the call to have one student transported by ambulance to a hospital for excessive alcohol consumption and he called the parents of the other boy.

"That's a hard phone call to make," said Tracy.

He accompanied the boy on the ambulance for the journey to the hospital.

Other students were asked to leave the game for rude and belligerent behavior, which Tracy said is "not acceptable."

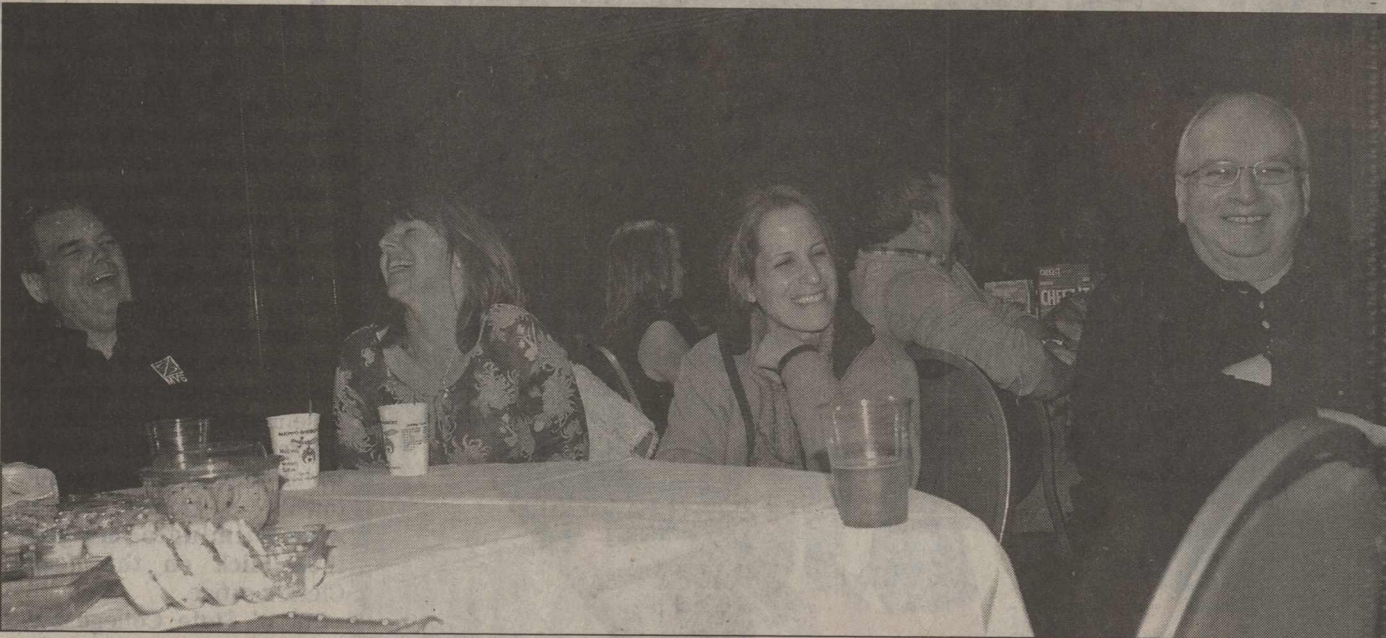

"We very rarely have these issues," said Tracy. "It's not Wilmington's best foot forward."

Tracy also assisted police in removing a couple of unruly students that do not attend Wilmington High School.

Disciplinary action was swift and significant. While Tracy will not divulge specific punishments for privacy reasons, he did indicate that since the students are upperclassmen, the nature of the punishments is significant. In addition to suspensions, students also lose the privilege of participating in extracurricular clubs, sports, and events through the remainder of the year.

"Kids know what happens. At the beginning of the school year I explain the consequences to certain types of behavior. They know how I will respond," said Tracy.

In the aftermath of this disorderly conduct, Wilmington spectators now face a number of restrictions on game conduct and team apparel; face paint and costumes for supporters are now banned, as well as any disorderly conduct towards other fans or players. Any form of misconduct is now being treated as a reason for ejection from that game, as well as subsequent banning from future games, and for Wilmington High School students, banning from extra curricular activities. Through these preventative measures, Wilmington school officials aim to make these hockey games both safer and more enjoyable for all who want to cheer on their home team.

The good news is that at Monday night's game against Lincoln-Sudbury, Tracy praised the much-improved behavior of the students. With many boys wearing ties and girls dressed up, even Tracy himself came in a suit following a meeting.

"They stepped up last night, I have to give them credit for that," said Tracy. "It allows athletes to focus on the game. We will do it again next week at Tsongas arena and beyond."

Wilmington offers an ongoing, year-round, program of substance abuse education, bringing in speakers to talk about drug and alcohol abuse with specific classes as part of the Wildcat Project and working with the Substance Abuse Coalition. Past losses of students to drug and alcohol abuse may have initiated the programs years ago, but now it's about teaching parents, kids, and educators how to respond.

A glimpse of China in Wilmington

BY DAN HALL
Crier Correspondent

WILMINGTON - Rather than travel across the world, over the fabled silk roads and legendary great wall, Wilmington residents who want to visit China will have the opportunity to get a small experience of the Middle Kingdom at the Library. In a series of upcoming events examining China, the public is encouraged to come and learn about the sleeping giant that is China.

China, often thought of as mysterious and unavailable, has risen to center stage in the global theatre in recent years. While their powerful economy grows and roars like a dragon and their political agenda unfolds in multiple directions, China has captivated the curiosity and imagination of people around the world, including Wilmington, Massachusetts. A variety of events are scheduled that will allow people to learn about China. The first event is an informational session for anyone interested in traveling to China. On Monday, March 11th, Richard Ferland, a man who has spent many years living and working in China, will come and give a presentation on travel in China, Chinese culture and values. Mr. Ferland, a life long photographer, will also have many pictures to bring this talk to life.

A second event, put on by Boston College professor Richard Ross, will discuss the uneasy relationship between the United States and China. Particulars of China's history, geopolitics, and current economic status will be discussed, as well as what the rise of China might mean for stability in Asia and worldwide. This event will occur on March 18th at 7 PM.

For the kids, there will be a story time and craft event in the children's room at 3:45 on March 21st.

On March 23rd, there will be a Chinese tea-tasting event, hosted by prominent tea expert Robert Wu. There is a noticeable difference between common and premium Chinese teas, and this event offers an opportunity for those enthusiastic about tea to taste some of the best tea in the world, from the nation that invented it.

On Tuesday, March 26th there will be a Chinese martial arts demonstration by local martial arts expert Rick Wong. Rick, who lives in Wilmington but owns his own dojo in Melrose, will demonstrate the ancient Chinese art of Wushu. Wushu, once used for self defense, is now taught for health and fitness. Attendees are encouraged to wear comfortable clothing, and participants of all fitness levels are encouraged to attend.

Finally, a teen event that focuses on the delicious cuisine of China will occur on Thursday, March 28th.

Napoleon famously stated that China is a sleeping dragon, and when China wakes the world will tremble in its wake. China is stirring, and Wilmington natives are encouraged to come to the library to learn all about it.

Drama Guild advances

able to make it to the next stage.

This contest, held at 14 high schools across the state, each had eight different theatre guilds competing to move on. The top three high school guilds from each of the 14 schools were able to advance to the semifinals. Wilmington's semifinal location will be Norwood High School, and will occur this Saturday. The top three schools at that meeting will move on to another finals location.

The competition, which consists of different theatrical productions put on by the varying schools, is judged by a panel of experts in the audience. The teams are given 5 minutes to set up for their performance, 40 minutes to put on the play, and then another 5 minutes to take everything apart and put away.

Wilmington's production, a play written by one of its students, Katie Barry, is about a city in World War two during a blitzkrieg. Ms. Barry won an award for this play, becoming one of many Wildcats to walk out of the performance with some hardware. Other awards went to Caroline Johnson for stage directing, Connor Burke for the score/ensemble, and Mike Semonelli, Nicole Ledoux, and Mei Li Barnum for acting. A variety of other students won awards for Make-Up and the Grey People Award, which is an award for ensemble acting.

The semifinals are going to be held at Norwood high school this Saturday. Wilmington is slated to start the program, taking the stage first at 9:30 AM and setting a precedent for the rest of the day. Any and all supporters and fans are encouraged to come out and enjoy the production, as well as to show their support to Wilmington's theatrical finest.

Alaina M. Coakley of Wilmington Named to Colby College Dean's List

WATERVILLE, ME - Alaina M. Coakley, a first-year student at Colby College in Waterville, Maine, was named to the Dean's List for her outstanding academic achievement during the fall semester of the 2012-13 year. Coakley is the daughter of Christopher and Carol Coakley of Wilmington, Mass., and attended Wilmington High School.

Students whose grade point averages were 3.67 or higher were named to the Dean's List.

formational relationships between students and faculty. Graduates emerge as committed leaders ready to make an impact on their world. Colby is committed to making the full experience accessible to all qualified students, regardless of their ability to pay. The college enrolls 1,825 students.

Town election moved

CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1 making this the first of its kind. With the combination, though, come some logistical changes voters should be aware of before they get to the ballot box.

First, with both elections on Tuesday, April 30, polls will be open from 7 am to 8 pm. Residents that vote by absentee ballot must fill out a new absentee ballot form, which may be found on the town's website at www.wilmingtonma.gov, then click on the Town Clerk's office.

Out of State College students wishing to vote in the April 30th and June 25, 2013 elections also need to fill out an absentee ballot application. Students not yet registered to vote may download the voter registration and absentee application from the website listed above. Students can email completed ballots directly to the Town Clerk at sgeorge@town.wilmington.ma.us

Military Personnel stationed in the US or abroad may download the Federal Post Card absentee/voter registration form and email that directly to the Town Clerk at the above mentioned email.

Second, voters will experience a duplicate check-in when they arrive at their polling place, obtaining a separate ballot for each election. Thus, a voter will have to give his or her address twice to two different poll workers before going to the ballot box to vote.

"It's an additional step when they go in to vote, so they need to be aware," explained George.

This year there are primaries in only two parties, Democrat and Republican, for the U.S. Senate vacancy created by the resignation of John Kerry upon his confirmation as Secretary of State. Green Rainbow is now a political designation, no longer a political party, and thus will not offer a ballot for the primary.

George said that only six Wilmington residents were registered as Green Rainbow in recent years.

Parents should be aware that schools will be closed on April 30 in order to accommodate the elections and they should make plans for childcare.

The combination of these elections will save Wilmington taxpayers some money. The biggest cost drivers for elections, says

George, are the people required to operate the polls, including poll workers, custodians, and police details.

George anticipates needing more poll workers to manage the duplicate check-in process, in addition to a warden for each precinct, custodian, and police detail.

However, Saturday elections cost more, usually about $12,000, because each poll worker and custodian receives time and a half overtime pay. Workers typically put in a 16-hour day on election days, so by having both elections on a Tuesday only overtime costs will be reduced.

Costs for police details, which remain the same no matter the day of the week, are calculated as part of the election budget.

Custodians making time and a half on a Saturday at three schools typically cost $2,000 for an election. With the Tuesday election, custodians are normally scheduled for an evening shift as well, thus driving down the overtime costs significantly.

"They do a great job," said George, no matter what day of the week.

George estimates the savings at $6,700, which combines the increase in poll workers for the two elections, held concurrently, coupled with lower overtime costs.

Included in that savings is about $1,300 for police details.

George expects a positive impact on voter turnout as well, noting that in 2009 only 604 voters cast ballots in the annual town election.

This year, the combined election and the huge race for School Committee where at least five candidates are competing for a seat and pushing their supporters to get to the polls, should "automatically increase voter participation."

Nomination papers are due this Friday, March 8, by 5 pm to the Town Clerk's office.

The last day to register to vote to is Friday, April 5. The Town Clerk's office will remain open to 8 pm.

Residents with questions are encouraged to call the Clerk's office at 978-658-2030.

Girls Relay team 11th best in New England

By JAMIE POTE

ROXBURY - Five of them have been involved all season long, but only four of them got a chance to run on Saturday. But really in the end, it's five of them who can all say that they are not only the best 4x400 relay team ever at Wilmington High School, but now they are among one of the top teams in all of New England. This past Saturday at the 26th annual New England Track and Field Championship Meet held at the Reggie Lewis Center in Roxbury, the team of juniors Alex Bischoff, Rachel Alatalo, Cassie Grasso and senior Michelle Barnes combined for a time of 4:05.55 which was good for 11th place out of 30 teams. That finish was the third best out of Massachusetts teams, following first place winner Lexington and seventh place finisher Ursuline Academy, while finishing ahead of both Acton-Boxboro and Concord-Carlisle, who previously had

Halas and Jennings also among the best in New England

ROXBURY - Besides the Girls 4x400 relay team, two individuals on the Wilmington High School Boys Track-and-Field team also did quite well at the 26th annual New England Championship Meet held Saturday at the Reggie Lewis Center in Boston.

Senior Steve Halas finished 13th in the 1,000 meters and junior Eli Jennings finished 11th in the shot put, meaning both student-athletes are among the elite throughout the six states.

For Halas, he said he didn't run his best, coming across at 2:38.89 but this has quite the exhilarating indoor season, which came a very vigorous cross-country season helping the team reach the all-state meet. During this indoor season, he was part of the Division 3 state champion 4x400 relay team and then individually in the 1,000 meters, he finished first at the Middlesex League Meet, fourth at the Division 3 Meet, 7th at the All-State Meet and then 13th in New England out of 26 runners. He was the third best runner from Massachusetts following Mike Kalenoski of Lowell and Mike Andre of Agawam.

"I did not have my best race at New England and I'm a little disappointed about how I did," said Halas.

"However, looking back on my season this year I am extremely happy about how things went, especially how the all-state meet went. I didn't feel like I had much energy in my race at New England. But I am really looking forward to the outdoor season and overall I am very pleased about this year's indoor season."

Still finishing at the midpoint of runners who came across the different states, Halas said acknowledges exactly what he has accomplished.

"Although my race didn't go how I planned it was still a great experience to be able to represent Massachusetts and run against some of the best runners in New England and I'm really glad I had the opportunity to do so," he said.

As for Jennings, a junior, he finished 11th out of 29 competitors with a throw of 49-10. He had five other Massachusetts athletes finish in front of him but all five are seniors who compete at the Division 1 level, so just hanging with them is truly an incredible accomplishment. This season Jennings finished first at the Middlesex League Meet (50-02.75), second at the Division 3 Meet (52-05.00), sixth at the All-States (52-05.25) and now 11th at New England.

Beat Chelsea and Danvers in first two rounds

Lady 'Cats off to sectional semi-finals again

By JAMIE POTE

BURLINGTON - It's been a pretty remarkable season for the Wilmington High School Girls Basketball team. A year after going to the sectional semi-final behind two all-league players, including the league MVP, the Wildcats are going back there with a tilt on Thursday against the No. 1 seed and league rival Reading Rockets. And to get there, the Wildcats had to top Danvers, who enjoyed a truly remarkable season of their own.

On Sunday afternoon before a large crowd at Burlington High School, the Wildcats scored the game's final seven points coming in the final 80 seconds which was the difference of the No. 4 seed Wildcats (14-8) advancing to the semi-finals with the 54-47 victory over the No. 5 seeded Falcons (13-9), who end their season after winning just five games a season ago.

Wilmington will now play Reading, Thursday night at 7 pm at Woburn High School.

In the win over Danvers, Wilmington was led by a dynamic performance by the duo of senior Michelle Woods, who scored 17 of her game high 20 points in the second half, and junior point guard Christa Brent, who was awesome throughout the entire game running the team's offense and being such a huge spark to the team's strong defensive effort against a very solid Falcons team, who had no problems shooting from the outside with six treys.

"What can I say besides this was a great basketball game," said Wilmington head coach Jay Keane. "We knew that we had to get out on (Kasey) Sherry and (Hannah) Llewellyn and I think they were able to put Danvers up by one late in the game because they were outstanding shooters. But I thought we did a good job of switching up our defenses. We played some zone and we played some man-to-man because you can't lose some of those girls.

"In the first half their No. 14 (Emily McNulty) had a bunch of points and she was very tough around the basket and had a great drop step. But this was a good game. We fought, we hung in there and we made a couple of big shots and a couple of free throws at the end."

Llewellyn drained a huge three-pointer with 1:50 to go to tie the game up at 47. Wilmington had led for most of the game, including by as many as nine with 5:38 left in the third, by four after the third quarter and by five with 4:11 to go before Danvers made a strong comeback. After that three-pointer, Wilmington got consecutive baskets from Woods, the first one on a short jumper with 1:20 to go and the second on a great feed from Brent, before the latter scored on three free throws in the final 41 seconds to put the icing on the cake.

"What we tell our girls is that all five of them are capable of scoring but they just have to find the best option," said Keane. "And a lot of times Michelle was the best option especially coming off a screen. She is patient and she finishes so well. We thought with the team we had this year that we needed balance scoring

Hockey team off to Sectional Finals again 'Cats get back on track with pair of tourney wins

What a difference a week makes!

Last week the Wilmington High School Boys Hockey team played a dismal state tournament opener and still came out with a win. After that, the team knocked off Boston Latin 4-1 on Friday night and more recently the team throttled No. 2 seed Lincoln-Sudbury 6-0 on Monday night at the Chelmsford Forum putting the team back into the sectional final for the second straight year.

The win over LS was special because the entire team played fantastic in all three zones, there was production from all three lines as six different players scored a goal and six different players had an assist, and on top of that the home town crowd was on its best behavior after having some mishaps in the Latin contest.

More importantly, the team's 17th victory in 22 games puts the Wildcats into Monday's Division 2 North Sectional final at the Tsongas Arena in Lowell against the No. 8 seed Danvers. This will be the team's second straight appearance in the sectional final and third since the 2007-'08 season. Wilmington defeated Winthrop in last year's final before beating Franklin to capture the program's first ever Division 2 state championship title. A win over Danvers will put the team back in the final to be played on March 17th.

Wilmington led 1-0 after the first period on Monday before erupting for four goals in the second period to put the Warriors, who were simply overmatched by the Wildcats finesse, skating ability, physical play and more importantly the ability to play three (fourth on occasion) lines, who all played fantastic in all three zones of the ice.

"It was a complete game for us," said Wildcat head coach Steve Scanlon. "We played like that a few times this season and we have been looking for that lately

Girls easily take Chelsea in first round

By JAMIE POTE

BILLERICA - With 3:09 left in the first half, Wilmington had a seven-point lead as Chelsea completed a 9-0 run and you wondered when the Wildcats were going to go into another gear. Two buckets from Lauren McKenna and another one from Rachel Mara helped ignite the Wildcats to a nice first half finish before the entire roster blew their opponents out of the water in the second half to come away with a 65-28 victory in a first round Division 2 North Sectional Girls' Basketball game played last Wednesday night at Shawsheen Tech High School.

The No. 4 seed Wildcats improved to 13-8 on the season with the win, including now winning 11-of-its-last 13 games, while Chelsea, the No. 13 seed, ends its season with a 9-10 overall record.

This was the fourth year in a row that the Wildcats have won their first round state tournament match-up, all in Division 2. Back in 2009, Wilmington was defeated by Weston in the first round competing in Division 3 North.

"I think sometimes they just settled with what the score was in the first quarter and we were back on our heels a little bit," said head coach Jay Keane. "I told them before the game that Chelsea can make some shots and they did and they crawled back in. But then we had a little talk at half-time and we came out and took care of business in the third quarter. We just needed that one little spurt and we got it. Then when the substitutes went in later in the second half, the level of play didn't drop. Sometimes when you put the subs in the chemistry isn't there right away but today they all played very well and filled their spots very well."

Wilmington led 15-4 after the first quarter before hitting the snooze button for the first few minutes of the second quarter. That allowed Chelsea to crawl back into the game, trailing 24-17 after that 9-0 run as Wilmington went nearly three minutes without a basket. Then McKenna, who had a career high nine points, and Mara got the team back on track to take a 31-20 lead at the break, before outscoring Chelsea 34-8 in the second half. Wilmington's defense, starting line-up or the many substitutes that went in, was very strong once again, like it has been all season against many other more formidable opponents.

"They just have to be aware of everyone on the court and not just their girl so it's a matter of playing help defense," said Keane. "Once they started doing that, we made that adjustment midway through the season, we started working on that where we weren't sinking to the ball, and we were helping on the weak side, our defense got much better."

The team's starting five players Alex Derian (12), Michelle Woods (12), Mara (7), Christa Brent (4) and Cailin O'Flaherty (2) combined to score 37 points as the Wildcats were without Carli Brent, who was out with mono after averaging close to double digits per game. The team's reserve players combined for 27 points led by Lauren McKenna's nine and Jackie Kennedy's seven, while, Katherine McKenna, Kimberly Donoghue, Kaitlyn Cowden and Kristen Connors combined for the other eight points.

Lady Rockets gearing up for Wilmington

By STEVE PACHECO
Daily Times Chronicle

When the Wilmington High girls basketball team entered the Middlesex League two years ago there were questions as to how it would respond playing against Division 1 and 2 teams every night but Wilmington put all those questions to bed winning 18 games last year and now 14 this season as head coach Jay Keane's program has been to the MIAA tournament nine years in a row.

"I've known Jay a long time and he is a great coach," said Reading head coach Kim Penney who will be ending her run as Lady Rocket coach once the post-season is over. "I respect him and his program and his teams are always right there in the mix every year."

The Reading and Wilmington girls only played one time this season and that was a pretty tight affair for most of the game at Hawkes Field House back on Dec. 21 before Reading won, 50-34. Wilmington led after one and only trailed by four at the half before a 15-2 third-quarter explosion by the Lady Rockets helped seal the win.

"That's what Reading does to you," said Keane. "You are right in the game with them and then all of sudden they go on a quick run and you are down double digits. They can really score in bunches."

The veteran Wilmington coach also knows he can't let Lady Rockets star Olivia Healy (now at 1,812 career points and counting) continue to put on record performances.

"The game plan isn't to stop Healy but to try to contain her because we saw her at the Comcast Tournament and that's why she is the best player in the state," he admitted. "We are going to have to use our quickness because they have size on us at every position and they are tough."

"Kim (Penney) does such a great coaching job them and that is why they haven't lost in two years."

Reading's coaching staff was able to scout the Lady Wildcats Sunday in their impressive 54-47 win against Danvers and came away knowing they won't be able to look past Keane's club.

"I really like their team and I like their style of play," said Penney. "Danvers was a tough team but Wilmington has a bunch of great athletes who used their speed and quickness and they have some kids who can really shoot the ball."

The Lady Wildcats have been led all season by a balanced roster including seniors Michelle Woods, Alex Derian and juniors Carli and Christa Brent.

While Healy is always the focal point the supporting cast for the Lady Rockets will once again be needed to contribute led by arguably the best sixth-player in the state in junior Bridget Clements. Reading will also hope to have a healthy Meghan Stanford ready to go as the starting senior center did not return from the Burlington win in the second half with an ankle injury.

The winner of the Lady Rockets and Lady Wildcats game will play North Andover, a 61-34 winner over Belmont on Tuesday night, in the sectional final Saturday at the Tsongas Center.

We played them once this year in what I consider one bad quarter, but we played them close. Our goal is to keep it close. They are a powerhouse and they are tough to match-up against. They are big, they are physical and they have a player who can drop 30 points at anytime. So we have our hands full."

Tip-off is slated for 7 pm at Woburn High School on Thursday with Wilmington and Reading and the winner advancing to the Division 2 North Sectional Final to be played at the Tsongas Arena.

"They are the best team in the state," said Keane. "They are well deserved of that recognition because they have the best player in the state (in Olivia Healy). They are very well coached.

Unheralded three-sport athlete

Mara starting to stealing the show

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

BILLERICA - In this writer's opinion, she's one of the most underrated female student-athletes Wilmington has had in quite a long time. And that has nothing to do with several health ailments, which would put any athlete on the shelf, nevermind in the starting line-up of three different varsity sports.

Rachael Mara played three very tough and three winded sports with soccer, basketball and lacrosse and she's very good at all three. On the lacrosse fields she can score with the best of them. On the soccer fields she plays extremely hard, plays extremely smart and sets up so many of her teammates. And on the basketball court, she's a defensive wizard, who on the other end offensively has improved leaps and bounds over the last two seasons.

While she helped the soccer team reach the sectional final, and is currently in the starting line-up on the basketball team that has reached the Division 2 North Sectional semi-finals, Mara doesn't let her asthma or the fact that she has one leg longer than the other stand in her way. But if you ask her, neither of those are ailments, and neither of those issues ever present problems when she competes.

"It's just my alignment and the way I was born and one leg is bigger than the other," she said. "But I really didn't know until this past soccer season when I was getting pain in one of my legs. So I went to physical therapy and now it's fine. It doesn't bother me at all - it's all good now."

Mara has never made an issue out of it - in fact her basketball coach Jay Keane never knew about it when the season began. She compared the ailment to another small common occurring sports injury.

"It was kind of like shin splints where I would walk and feel pressure," she said.

Again that never set her back in either soccer or basketball this season, nor did her asthma. Occasionally she would take a puff on the sidelines of a soccer game, or would be subbed out just to catch her breath, but Mara was so instrumental in the soccer team's success this past fall much like she is today with the hoop team. She scored seven points in the team's first round blowout win over Chelsea, before playing phenomenal on Sunday afternoon in the team's quarterfinal win over Danvers, and she finished with eight points.

"She rebounds, she hustles and she does so many things that may not show up on the stat sheet but are so important for us to win games," said Keane.

After starting out 0-4, Wilmington got back on track now winning 11 of its last 13 games, and that's pretty much all due to the team's defense. Mara, along with the Brent twins, Christa and Carli, are immense defensively. The three of them all have incredible speed, anticipation and come up with so many steals helping Wilmington with its transition offense.

"Rachael has had an outstanding season," said Keane. "She just does so much defensively with our press. She is just all over the place. (Rachael, Christa and Carli) are really good at finding each other (on the court) and finding the gaps. We said at the start of the season that we needed five or six girls to get seven or eight points a game and if we got that and played some defense, we could win some games. Rachael gets those seven points a game and she does everything well."

During Sunday's win, she made one play that had the fans in awe. After making a defensive steal, she started to gain speed up the right sideline before two Danvers' players started to crowd her. Mara put the ball inbetween the legs of one player, and ran around both, collecting the ball back up before racing towards the net where she got fouled. That came right after she made a beautiful feed to Michelle Woods, who scored a big bucket, as part of her 17-point second half performance. Mara said the reason why the team is back in the sectional semi-finals is because of the entire team.

"I had a feeling that we would come back (after the 0-4 start) because we have a really good team," she said. "We were hoping to get back (to our winning ways) and once we did, you couldn't stop us."

In the first round win over Chelsea, the only thing that could stop Wilmington was Wilmington - but a second half explosion outscoring the Red Devils 34-8 pushed the 'Cats into that next round game with Danvers.

"This is just really good to get this win," she said. "We have been working really hard and we picked it up (later in the game) so this is just really a team effort (win). It just really showed that we worked as a team and how tough we are as a team when we do that, so it turned out great for us tonight."

The wins over Chelsea and Danvers are just two examples of what happens when team's play defense, and what happens when teams have players like Mara, who are like Energizer Bunnies out there, always causing havoc.

"Our defense has been what has been getting us through (this winning streak)," she said. "We really started to pick up our play in the second half because our defense has been so good. It's just a team effort. We all talk on defense and we all play together."

Mara said that she learned so much about sports from her older siblings, Bry and Jamie, who were both multiple sport athletes at WHS.

"It helped (having my siblings involved in sports)," she said. "We also messed around playing in the neighborhood and stuff like that and I always looked up to them. My sister played soccer and lacrosse, so it was always competition going back and forth."

Perhaps all of that, and the ability to overcome several physical ailments, have helped Rachael Mara become not only one of the most underrated female athletes in some time, but a three-sport athlete who has been a huge reason why yet another team has made another deep state tournament run.

and play good defense and that has been the key all season."

Danvers led through most of the first quarter and into the second quarter, as many as six with an 8-2 start before Wilmington settled down and started to hit some shots. After Kaitlyn Cowden came off the bench and scored an impressive bucket in the paint, the 'Cats trailed by three after the first quarter break. Alex Derian then started to get hot hitting two of three treys on the game, her second polished off a 9-3 run, giving Wilmington a 21-17 lead with 1:41 to go in the first half. Wilmington kept the lead until Danvers tied the game with 1:50 to go.

"It came down to making plays," said Danvers' head coach Pat Veilleux to the Salem News. "Wilmington is a very good team with incredible foot speed."

Danvers had previously defeated the No. 12 seed Gloucester 50-42 for its first tournament win since 2010. A perennial state tournament team, the Falcons won 15 games each in 2010 and '11 before falling to last place in the standings of the Northeastern Conference last year with a 5-15 record.

Wilmington was able to get by this very pesky team behind the performances of Woods (20 points), Brent (13), Derian (9) and Rachael Mara (8), the latter who

Christa Brent leading Wildcats You can easily (not really) point out this guard

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

BURLINGTON - When she started her varsity career, she reminded you of former Town Crier Female Athlete of the Year Brienne Bozzella. They both played the same position of point guard, they both are phenomenal athletes, with great speed and work ethic and both are prolific defensive players. Like Bozzella, Christa Brent just needed to slow the game down and get the rough edges out. And once she did that, she has been such a difference in helping the Wilmington High School Girls Basketball team pick off two teams thus far in the state tournament.

Brent played all 32 minutes of Sunday's thrilling 53-47 victory over Danvers in the quarterfinal round of the Division 2 North sectional tournament. She didn't come out once. Despite that, she was involved on almost every play - running the team's offense as the point guard, exercising her incredible speed on the defensive end, all the while she was second on the team in points with 13, led the team in steals with seven and was second on the team in rebounds with six.

"This is her second year in a row running the team's offense and it's the second year in a row we have made it to the semi-finals," said Wildcat head coach Jay Keane after the win on Sunday. "We have a point guard who gets it. She recognizes defenses and you know what she is playing defense the entire time too and never takes a play or a second off. She's also one of our top rebounders. We have been leaning on Christa all season long and once again she was outstanding tonight."

Brent only scored four points in the first half, the first on a jump shot and the second on an impressive drive to the hoop and helped Wilmington take a three-point lead into the halftime break. In the second half, her teammate Michelle Woods was the highlight scoring 17 of her 20 points on the day but a handful of her buckets came on great looks by Brent, including a huge basket coming with 53 seconds left giving Wilmington a four-point lead before Brent sealed the game with three free throws the rest of the way.

"We came out strong in the second half," said Brent after the win. "We knew we had to work hard and that's what we did. I couldn't have done it without my team. We all work together on defense and we all move the ball on offense."

Wilmington has won a total of 14 games this season behind its team oriented play. Offensively, it's been a number of players who have stepped up and each of them seems to lead the team every game in points whether it be Woods, Christa Brent or her twin sister Carli, who has missed these two state tournament games because of mono.

"It's different playing without Carli," she said. "I miss her. She's going to the doctor's and she hopes to play on Thursday but I'm not sure that's going to happen."

Besides the offense being spread around, the team's top notch defense also gets superior efforts by not only Christa, but Carli, Rachael Mara and others. That was again the case on Sunday.

"They had some good post players and outside shooters so it was tough covering them but we worked as a team and got the job done," said Christa. "We talked about (their strengths) as practice so we knew how to handle it. We just worked as a team to get some defensive stops."

Wilmington High junior point guard Christa Brent has played exceptional basketball during the state tournament, and throughout the entire season. Here she looks to defend a Danvers player during Sunday's win.

Ahead by those three points at halftime, Wilmington came out strong in the third quarter starting on a 6-0 run which included Woods converting on a field goal and two free throws sandwiched between Christa Brent scoring on a steal and a lay-up to the put the Wildcats up by nine.

"We came out strong in the second half," she said. "We knew we had to work hard and that's what we did. I couldn't have done it without my team. We all work together on defense and we all move the ball on offense."

Danvers eventually crawled back and tied the game up at 47-47 with 1:50 go to. Then we it counted, Woods drained consecutive shots, the second on a great inside look by Christa, who then came up with a defensive steal before hitting three freebies down the stretch.

"I don't even remember what happened," she said about the steal.

Then less than a minute after making that great play, she was able to celebrate the win with her teammates, including her twin sister, and finally get a breather after playing 32 fantastic minutes of basketball.

"I'm pretty tired. But I couldn't have done it without my team," she said.

And they couldn't have advanced without the play of Christa Brent.

Hockey team gets back on track

and tonight it was a pretty convincing effort. We had a lot of shots on (Lincoln-Sudbury goalie Erik Kessler) and we got balance scoring from a lot of different guys. Actually we had six different scorers tonight. We play really good on defense and this is a good win. We didn't expect it to go like that and we just jumped on them with some bang-bang goals in the second period."

The game was scoreless through the early goings of the first period although Wilmington was on control throughout all 45 minutes. The 'Cats had seven quick shots on net in the first few minutes compared to two solid chances for LS, who really didn't challenge Wilmington goaltender Drew Foley after that.

But with less than six minutes to go in the first period, Luke Foley and Cody McGowan had control of the puck with the latter finding an open Anthony Castellano on the left point. The senior blueliner rifled a low slap shot through a screen and Kessler never saw the puck bounce through his legs to the back of the net for what turned out to be the game winner and Castellano's third tally of the season.

Then immediately out of the locker room to start the second period, Wilmington put on the accelerator and never shut it down. Cam Owens, just 12 seconds into the frame, took a defenseman wide on the left hand circle and got an edge to create some space and sent a low hard wrist shot to the far inside post making it 2-0.

Then with 10:43 to go in the period, senior Dylan DiNatale came down the left wing side and almost at the same spot as Owens and dished off a nice pass to his right to the ever hustling Luke Foley, who off the weak side poked the puck high into the top corner for the pretty goal making it 3-0. Just 1:18 later, in a big pile up in front Steve DeFrucia's shot was saved and his freshman linemate Billy Falter put home the rebound making it 4-0.

DiNatale added the fifth goal with 4:40 left in the second and then Jake Rogers found the back of the net in the third period for the sixth and final goal.

"Our defensive coverage was much better and we were concerned with (Jordan) Dow who had 27 goals this year, so we tried to pay some extra attention to him," said Scanlon. "I thought we got a lot out of all of our lines tonight. The depth and the balance of our lines was the difference tonight. I think we burned them up again with our cycling (in the offensive zone)."

While six different players scored the goals, six different players picked up single assists including McGowan, DiNatale, DeFrucia, Foley, Owens and Cam Collins.

Drew Foley made all 15 saves to record the shut out, his eighth of the season.

The win now puts Wilmington to the Tsongas Arena again, and now the No. 8 seed Danvers stands in the Wildcats way.

"We are thrilled to get back to the Tsongas and looking to defend our (sectional) title," said Scanlon. "My kids have been through this before so experience does help. I thought (Lincoln-Sudbury) was tight and I think being through (games like this) once you are a little calmer."

Danvers will enter the game with a 13-6-4 overall record. Danvers has gained a lot of momentum in the state tournament dropping Somerville 9-1 before beating the No. 1 seed Beverly, who defeated them twice during the regular season, and then dropping Concord-Carlisle 5-3 on Monday night prior to the Wildcats contest.

"Danvers is always a good storied program. They are in a good, competitive league so we're expecting another tough battle," said Scanlon.

Castellano scores game winner vs LS Senior defenseman gets offense going

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

BILLERICA -- Anthony Castellano will never be confused with a puck moving offensive defenseman. He's more like a stay at home guy, a high school version of NHL pro Shea Weber. But it was his offensive skills that ignited the Wilmington High School team's offense in Monday's Division 2 North Sectional semi-final victory over Lincoln-Sudbury.

With less than six minutes to go in the first period of a scoreless game, Castellano was waiting inside the Warriors' zone just inside the left hand blueline. He took a pass from junior Cody McGowan and did what he should do - take a shot on net. With a little open space, he wound up and took a hard, low slap shot that went through a screen and through the wickets of net-minder Erik Kessler, who was very slow to react to the shot as if he never saw it coming in the first place. Nevertheless, the puck went to the back of the net, the goal light went on and Castellano and his teammates celebrated with what proved to be the game winning goal. Wilmington went on to win 6-0 and are now playing for the North Sectional Championship on Monday.

"It was tight early on and we were just telling them to throw pucks at the net," said head coach Steve Scanlon of the goal. "(Anthony) saw a little opening and from where I was right behind him it was a seeing-eye to the net and you could see the goalie's legs open and go in. That goal really helped get us going."

For Castellano that is his third goal of the season and fourth in his varsity career.

"I had two shots before that got knocked away, so that one came out to me and I figured I would (just throw it on net to) get a tip," he said. "I saw his legs open the whole time, but I don't think he ever saw the shot."

Castellano's goal gave Wilmington the 1-0 lead after the first period before Wilmington broke the bank open in the second period netting four goals before Jake Rogers added the final one in the third period. All in all six different players scored a goal and six different players had an assist - 12 players figured in the game's scoring.

"It's awesome (to have six different goal scorers)," he said. "It shows our depth and shows how strong we are with so many balanced lines."

Defensively, Castellano along with fellow blueliners Brian Pickett, Jimmy Davey and Cam Collins played very well as Lincoln-Sudbury only had 15 shots on net, which came after Boston Latin put 19 on, three days after Stoneham had 34.

"We really came out hard tonight and didn't stop until the final buzzer," said Castellano. "Obviously tonight we just didn't come off the accelerator especially after the Stoneham game."

We kind of picked it up against Boston Latin but tonight we just came out and played hard the entire game."

Castellano, who is the oldest of three children including his sister Chloe a member of the girls' hockey team and his brother Joey a member of the boys team, is ecstatic knowing he'll be playing at the Tsongas Arena for the second straight year come Monday night.

"I can't wait," he said. "Last year was awesome and hopefully we can do it again this year. I think this year (for me) there's a lot more drive because I know I won't be playing anymore after this season."

STONEHAM -- Three days after nearly collapsing against the last seed of the section, the Wilmington High School Boys Hockey team got back to its tough style of play on Friday night. That is, skate, hit, play defense and wear down your opponents. And that's exactly what happened in the quarterfinal match-up against Boston Latin.

Wilmington trailed 1-0 after the first period but scored the game's next four goals which was more than enough for the No. 3 Wildcats to top the No. 6 seed Wolfpack, 4-1, before a large crowd at the Stoneham Arena. That large contingent ended up being unruly when the game ended, throwing debris onto the ice while several spectators had to be removed or taken to the hospital due to alcohol consumption.

Before they became unglued, that crowd witnessed Wilmington's top two players Cam Owens and Brendan McDonough put on quite a show combining for three of the team's goals, several of them on the finesse side showing off terrific moves and passes from one side of the ice to the other.

Trailing 1-0 after the first period, McDonough and Dylan DiNatale struck for goals in the second period giving Wilmington some breathing room. Then in the third, it was Owens and McDonough giving the team a two and then a three-goal lead, which was more than enough for junior goaltender Drew Foley, who after making 15 saves was removed with 3:53 for back-up Brodie Curtis, who made his tournament debut with four stops to preserve the win.

"This is a far cry from (last) Tuesday night," said Wildcat head coach Steve Scanlon, referring to the team's 5-2 win over Stoneham in the first round. "I thought the energy was good off the bat and despite controlling the first period we gave up the goal. That hurts you physiologically because (Latin's goalie Michael Murray) was playing well and they were playing pretty well."

"But our kids didn't panic and there's some of your tournament experience right there. You expect to get down in games and not everything is going to go your way and I was impressed with that, that they were able to hold their water. We had a real good second period and then I thought the physiological effect was the early goal in the third period. Those goals are killers."

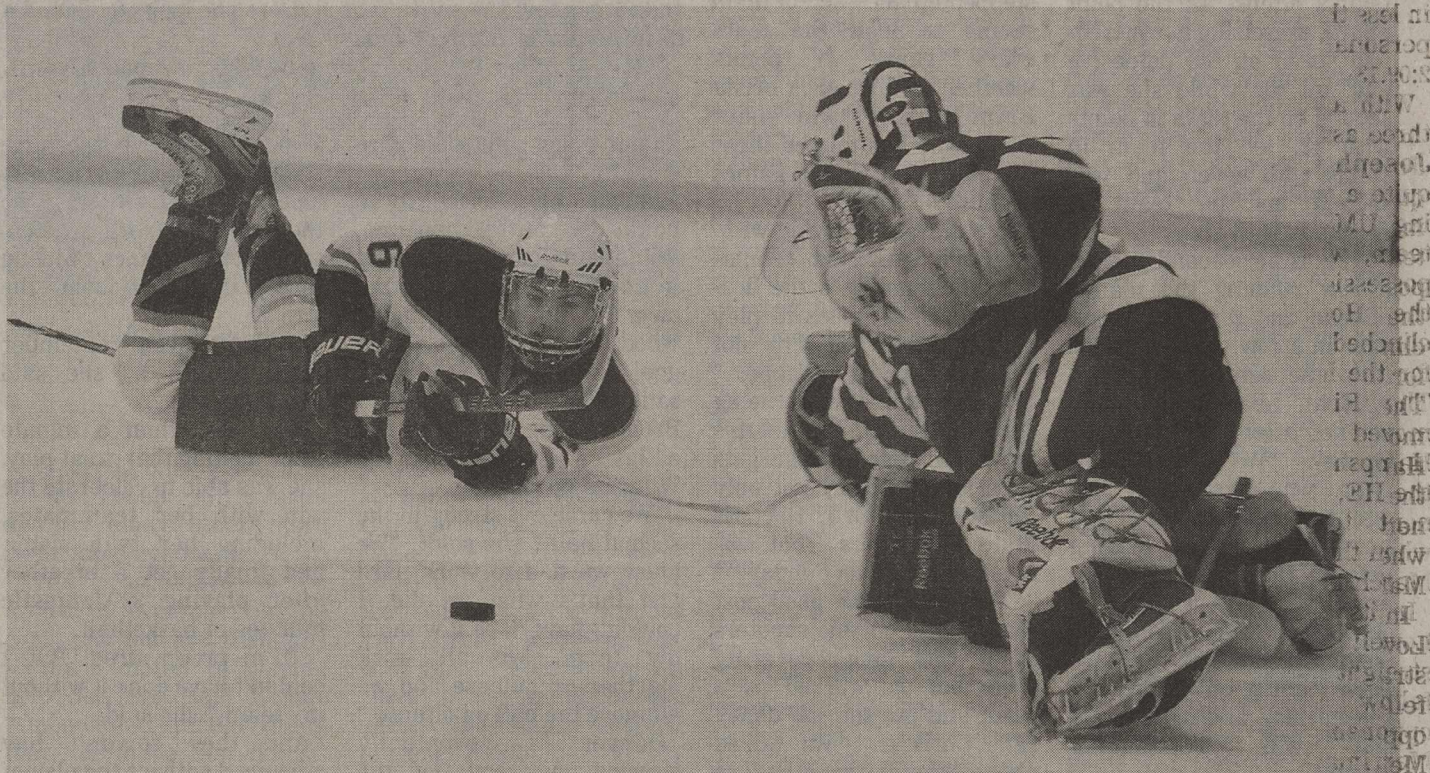

Wilmington gave up the most shots in a game all season long in the 5-2 win over Stoneham and on Friday the team went back to its solid defensive play, allowing 19 shots in all against a much better team. The team's four blueliners, Brian Pickett, Jimmy Davey, Cam Collins and Anthony Castellano all played very well and very sound in their own end. And at the other end, offensively, Castellano assisted on the team's second goal taking a slap shot from the point which was redirected by DiNatale putting Wilmington up 2-1 with 1:36 left in the second period.

Then just 31 seconds into the third period, McDonough and Owens put on a display of passing tape-to-tape from the neutral zone and into the Latin end, and McDonough closed the deal making it 3-1, which took the wind right out of Latin's sails.

"I like the team wins when you can use all of your players and this was a good win for us," said Scanlon. "We are thrilled to be moving on and we're hoping we're snapping out of (our funk). I thought we really were them down, especially in the third period."

All in all, McDonough had two goals and an assist. Owens had one goal and two assists, while Pickett picked up two assists. Jake Rogers also had one assist.

McDonough nets two goals in quarterfinal win

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

STONEHAM -- He was part of a two-man show and the two of them put on a clinic of how to pass the puck, shoot the puck and finish opportunities. Brendan McDonough and Cam Owens really strutted their hockey talents on Friday night helping the Wildcats defeat Boston Latin, 4-1, in the quarterfinal round of the Division 2 North sectional tournament.

McDonough ended the night with two goals and an assist, and although he gets overshadowed by Owens, who is the first number jotted down on opposing scouting reports, McDonough has proven over his three years with the varsity club that he's one heckuva player.

"Yes he did (play very well on Friday night)," said head coach Steve Scanlon minutes after the win. "He moved the puck as well as I have ever seen him. When he's on he's the whole package. He can play on the penalty kills, on the power plays, he's on a regular shift and he's just a real positive kid."

Through three seasons, McDonough has put up some very impressive offensive numbers. As a freshman he finished with 27 points scoring 12 goals and adding 15 assists. Last year as a sophomore, he goals dipped to just four but he ended with 19 points. This year he currently is second on the team in goals with 11 and second in points with 31. In his three seasons he has 27 goals and 50 assists for 77 points and is in a great spot to join the 100-point plateau next year as a senior.

"He is certainly a force," said Scanlon. "Cam's the player but people forget that we have a 1 and a 1-A. Brendan may not be as dynamic as Cam but he's pretty effective. You can key on Cam all you want because that leaves someone open."

That's what happened several times on Friday. Trailing 1-0 with less than six minutes to go in the second period, Owens came down the right hand boards and slid a nice pass across to an open McDonough, who found the puck of the net to tie the game up at 1-1 and give Wilmington a huge lift at the time.

"Cam just found me and he's always good at that, Jake (Rogers) as well," said McDonough. "I like playing with both of those guys. I think we compliment each other pretty well."

Wilmington would score another goal before the second period ended, and then in the third period, the 'Cats got some breathing room right off the bat. Just 31 seconds into the period, McDonough and Owens displayed awesome back-and-forth tape-to-tape passing starting through the neutral zone and into the Latin end, before McDonough finished off the chance taking a pass from Owens, from the opposite wing, before shifting past the goalie who was well out of position.

"Both goals he gave me a pass right on my stick - tape to tape and I just had to finish. It would have embarrassing if I didn't," he said.

Those two goals lifted Wilmington past Latin and into the semi-final where it defeated Lincoln-Sudbury but the effort, execution and win over Latin was huge considering the Wildcats lacked all of that in the tournament opening round win against Stoneham three nights before.

"We played a lot better in this game than last game and we were all skating and working hard," he said. "We were playing as individuals. We just didn't play well at all the other night. We just didn't have it. We were all trying to be individuals out there and tonight we knew that we had to work as a team. We all said that if we played like that again it wasn't going to work. Luckily Stoneham wasn't one of the better teams we have faced so we were able to get out of there with a win."

McDonough, who is also a very good baseball player, was asked what the team needed to do to keep up the winning ways.

"We just have to play like we did tonight and play physical," he said. "We played a lot more physical tonight, especially with some opening hits to begin the game which set the tone."

Skotz and Riley honored for academic and athletic excellence

By MIKE STOLLER
Sports Correspondent

Two local athletes were recently honored for their academic and athletic excellence. Tewksbury's Nicole Skotz, a senior at UMass Lowell, was recently named to the U.S. Track & Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCA) All-Academic Team. Also, Wilmington's Kaitlyn Riley was one of 17 members of the Bentley College women's field hockey team who have been named to the 2012 Gladiator by SGI/National Field Hockey Coaches Association Division II National Field Hockey Coaches Association Division II National Academic Squad.

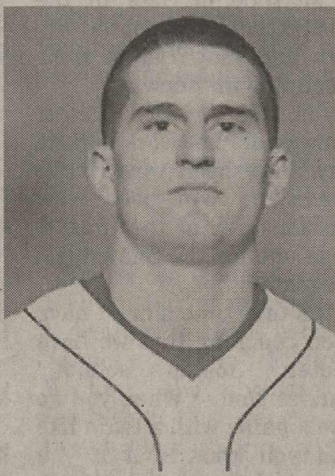

Turning to actual competition, Leanne Tucker, of Tewksbury, ran her fastest time of the season in the 800 meters with a time of 2:09.98 at the Columbia Last Chance Meet in the New York Armory on Saturday. Tucker placed 12th overall and came within less than a second of her personal best time of 2:09.13.

With a pair of goals and three assists, Wilmington's Joseph Pendenza had quite a week for the surging UMass Lowell hockey team, which claimed sole possession of first place in the Hockey East, and clinched a home ice berth for the league tournament. The River Hawks, who moved ahead of New Hampshire by a point in the HE, will host an opponent to be determined when the postseason starts March 14.

In its latest win, UMass Lowell won its seventh straight game against a fellow nationally-ranked opponent, defeating host Merrimack College, 3-1, Sunday. Pendenza had two helpers as the River Hawks improved to 21-9-2 overall and 15-8-2 in the Hockey East.

Pendenza also had two goals in a 4-2 win over host Boston College and an assist in a 4-0 win over Merrimack at the Tsongas Center. The win over BC was the River Hawks' first at Conte Forum since Feb. 13, 2009.

Baseball spring training may have just started, but Tewksbury's Pat Devlin is already in full swing. The UMass Lowell senior star outfielder delivered a two-run single to cap the River Hawks' 8-1 win over host Philadelphia University in the first game of a doubleheader last week. The River Hawks also won the nightcap, 9-1.

As a junior last season, Devlin batted .290 while driving 16 runs. He stole 10 bases in 11 attempts. Among his highlights, Devlin went 3-for-3 with two runs and an RBI and three stolen bases in an 11-1 win over St. Michael's last April. He played in 26 games with 25 starts.

Devlin will be reunited with senior southpaw hurler Vinny DePierro, who will join the UMass Lowell squad this spring. DePierro and Devlin were teammates when they played at Tewksbury Memorial High, where they helped lead the Redmen to two Merrimack Valley Conference (MVC) championships. DePierro had a team leading 1.00 ERA in 2008 and tossed a no-hitter for UML two seasons ago.

Colby-Sawyer College welcomes back sophomore catcher Rob Wallace, of Tewksbury, who appeared in 36 games with 28 starts behind the plate and threw out 12 would-be base stealers in his first season. He also was tied for the team lead with four sacrifices. Wallace was a stand-out catcher for Tewksbury Memorial, where he also served as class president.

Joining Wallace on the team this spring will be Tewksbury's Mike Bowse, who will enter Colby-Sawyer as a freshman, after playing four years for Shawsheen Tech High, where he pitched and was named an All-Star in his junior and senior seasons.

Tewksbury's Manny Cabral recently had three hits, including an RBI double for Texas Southern University in a 7-6 loss to Southeastern Louisiana.

Wilmington's Leanne Doviak enters her seventh season as the head softball coach at Salem State University. Harris was named the 2010 Massachusetts State Collegiate Athletic Conference (MASCAC) Coach of the Year, after leading the Lady Vikings to the MASCAC championship and NCAA Tournament. Salem State won a school-best 35 games that season. Salem State also won the MASCAC title in 2012 under Harris, earning the Vikings another NCAA tourney berth. The Vikings finished the season at 33-14.

Tewksbury native and Bryant University senior third baseman Christina Eringis drove in the only run for the Bulldogs in a 10-2 loss to Indiana State at the Tiger Invitational Tournament, in Auburn, Ala.

University of New England's Allie Frazier, of Tewksbury, will be back patrolling the outfield for the powerful Nor'easters, where she started in 42 games last season and played in all 48. Frazier, a junior, had 24 hits and scored 21 runs last season. She was 10 of 12 in stolen base attempts.

The Nor'easters have been selected to repeat as champions among the ten institutions in the Commonwealth Coast Conference (CCC) Preseason Poll. CCC Commissioner Gregg Kaye announced the voting results from the league's head coaches on Feb. 28.

UNE won the title last season for the second time in program history, after going 13-5 in conference games. The Nor'easters finished 27-14 overall, after sweeping through the league tournament (4-0) as the third seed, and going 1-2 in the NCAA Championship at the Amherst Regional.

Tewksbury's Jamie Ricciardi brings her talents from Arlington Catholic High to Westfield State College. A freshman, Ricciardi is both a pitcher and first baseman.

Emily Crannell, of Wilmington, will enter her first season as a second baseman for the St. Anselm College softball team.

Wilmington's Christine Woods and Erin McMahon and Tewksbury's April McDermott will continue their collegiate tennis careers. Woods plays for St. Anselm, McMahon competes for Merrimack College, and McMahon hits for Salem State.

Lady Rams reach sectional semi-finals

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

MALDEN - It should have ended better than this for the Shawsheen Tech Girls Basketball team. After a tremendous regular season and a thrilling upset in their previous game, the Lady Rams deserved a better fate than the 71-45 drubbing they took at the hands of defending state champion Fenway in the semi-finals of the Division 4 North sectional tournament at Malden High on Monday night.

It is the second year in a row Shawsheen has been eliminated from the tournament by the powerful Fenway squad, having lost to them in last year's sectional finals.

It would be impossible to tell by the final score, but the No. 3 Rams actually gave the No. 10 Panthers all they could handle for much of the first half, but a 14 second stretch at the end of the first half turned a close game into a double digit advantage for Fenway, and the bigger, faster Panthers simply took over in the second half to turn the game into a rout.

Shawsheen, which finished their sensational season at 18-4 overall, battled through the relentless Fenway full court press for much of the first half and trailed just 24-20 with 14.2 seconds left in the half. That's when Fenway star Tajanay Veiga-Lee (24 points) went to the line and sank a pair of free throws to extend the lead to six points. Still, all did not seem lost for Shawsheen who looked to have one more chance to again but the lead to four or less. But two quick turnovers right under the Shawsheen basket led to two quick baskets by Fenway and a 30-20 halftime lead.

All of the hard work Shawsheen had turned in throughout the first half was gone in the blink of an eye, and when Veiga-Lee, who will likely play Division 1 college basketball next year, scored the first five points in the opening minute of the second half, the lead was 35-20 and the game was rapidly slipping away from the Lady Rams.

Shawsheen coach Dick Barriss blamed himself for the rapid fire points by Fenway that helped turn the game around.

"I didn't get the right personnel in there," said Barriss. "I was trying to rest people, thinking I only got two minutes, I should be all right. Unfortunately for this guy, it wasn't all right tonight."

Barriss probably should not be too hard on himself, as the combination of good coaching and great execution by the Shawsheen players actually had the Rams with a lead midway through the second quarter.

Five straight points from senior Ari Medeiros (team high 15 points), including a three pointer, gave Shawsheen a 19-13 lead with 4:15 left in the half and it looked like momentum might be starting to swing the Lady Rams way.

But Fenway controlled the rest of the half, scoring nine straight points to take a 22-19 lead with 1:15 left in the half. The lead was 22-20 with 57 seconds left when sophomore Emily Irwin (13 points) hit one of two free throws, before Fenway countered with a pair of free throws of their own to make it 24-20 with 50 seconds left, followed by the disastrous final 14 seconds.

The full court pressure of the Panthers finally began to take over the game during those final four minutes of the half, particularly in the final scoring frenzy, and it continued the rest of the game, as they continually forced the Lady Rams into turnovers.

"They score 71 points tonight, but we give them 25 on turnovers," said Barriss. "You've got to be able to handle (Fenway's full court pressure)."

Once Fenway had gained a comfortable lead they did not let up at all in the second half with Veiga Lee doing most of the damage. Veiga Lee, along with 6'2 center Jalissa Ross proved to be a deadly combination against the Lady Rams.

Barriss was particularly impressed with Veiga-Lee, who has scored over 2,000 career points, and averaged nearly 25 points per game this season.

"She is just an outstanding player," Barriss said. "She does what she wants to do, she's like a guy playing with girls out there. I tried multiple defenses and it really didn't make any difference."

While the season certainly ended in frustration with the blowout loss, it was an incredible season for the Lady Rams, who lost only four games all season, all of them coming to the teams that will meet in the North sectional finals, with three of the losses coming to CAC rival Whittier followed by Monday's loss to Fenway.

"We finish up at 18-4 and if you had said to me at the beginning of the year with this team, would I be happy with going 18-4 and getting to the semi-finals?, I would have said yes," Barriss said. "I am extremely pleased with this team. This team went beyond what they should have been able to do."

"We had three tough games against Whittier and then obviously a tough game tonight."

Monday night marked the final game of the careers of two of Shawsheen's best players, as the Tewksbury residents Ari Medeiros and Stephanie Champoux wrapped up their remarkable careers. Each has been a four year starter for the Lady Rams and Barriss knows they will be sorely missed, but he appreciates all that they brought to the program over the past four years, including three CAC championships, as well as a trip to last year's sectional finals.

"They bleed their heart out for you. They give you everything that they can possibly do. I don't know what Ari ended up with, but the reason we were in the game early was because of what she and Stephanie were able to do."

"They both finish with outstanding careers and they are both going to be good players if they choose to continue playing. I hate to see them go, but I turn around and say, it's been a wonderful ride."

Quarterfinal Win

Prior to their loss to Fenway the Lady Rams had earned their spot in the semi-finals with a thrilling 57-55 win over New Mission last Friday night at the Cook Street Pavilion.

In front of a packed house the Lady Rams shocked New Mission by rallying from an 11-point deficit late in the third quarter to earn the victory and move on to their meeting with Fenway.

While the results against Fenway did not work out the way Shawsheen would have liked, the win over New Mission was, at the time, a huge one for the Shawsheen program.

"It's first time since I have been coaching that we have beaten Boston school," Barriss said. "When you go into a game with a team like that you know that if you want to have any chance to win you have to play very well and you are going to have to capitalize on some breaks as well."

Shawsheen did just that in the closing seconds of the game. Trailing 55-54 with New Mission at the free throw line with less than 10 seconds left in the game the Lady Rams got the break they needed when the New Mission player missed the free throw and Stephanie Champoux got the rebound and drew a foul, sending her to the line.

Champoux (12 points) calmly sank both free throws with six seconds left to give the Lady Rams 56-55 lead. Emily Irwin then came up with a big steal and sank one of two free throws to make the score 57-55 and Shawsheen held on for the victory.

Ari Medeiros had 17 points to lead the way for Shawsheen.

A strong finish to the third quarter was a big key for Shawsheen who trailed 41-30 late in the quarter with New Mission in possession of the ball. But a missed three pointer by New Mission, followed by a Shawsheen three pointer made the score 41-33 and the Lady Rams closed to 43-37 heading into the fourth quarter.

"That was huge for us to get it close headed into the fourth quarter," Barriss said. "And then we had a great fourth quarter, scoring 20 points."

A big part of those 20 points came on three Medeiros three pointers, as well as another three-pointer by Shanell Nardone. Rachael Fahey also hit three clutch free throws in the fourth quarter to help secure the victory.

Controversial Injury

The win over New Mission was not without controversy, much of it created in the days after the game by New Mission Athletic Director Cory McCarthy.

New Mission star forward Deandra Humphries was accidentally hit in the head area by a Shawsheen player early in the fourth quarter and went to the floor where she was tended to by a trainer. Once she went to the bench, and after she was examined for signs of a concussion by the trainer, the trainer determined that she was not adequately responsive and that she may have suffered a concussion.

The trainer then made the decision to hold Humphries out the rest of the game.

McCarthy told the Boston Herald on Monday, "We believe that we were victims of bad sportsmanship and unprofessional behavior by both the trainer for Shawsheen Tech and its athletic director. We are alleging that during the fourth quarter forward Deandra Humphries was wrongfully disqualified by the athletic trainer with intent to change the outcome of the game."

Of course the only problem with McCarthy's argument is that despite what was stated in the Herald, the trainer who made the decision to not let Humphries back in the game was, according to the Boston Globe 'not an employee of Shawsheen but rather worked for Precision Athletic Training and had no connections to Shawsheen.'

Research by the Town Crier has also confirmed that the decision on whether or not to put a player back in the game is solely the responsibility of the independent trainer. In other words, neither Costabile or McCarthy could have any say in the decision.

Shawsheen superintendent Charlie Lyons issued a statement Monday night strongly disagreeing with McCarthy's accusations.

"An independent, qualified, medical trainer made a decision to remove a player who had no response to standard cognitive concussion questions," said Lyons in a statement. "Student health and safety are our highest concerns. I dismiss out of hand any accusations that challenge either the integrity of our athletic department or the broadly acclaimed sportsmanship of our programs. We cordially invite the MIAA to investigate our actions in any many manor it considers appropriate."

Rams Hockey team tops Lowell Catholic, 1-0, in quarterfinals

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The Shawsheen Tech Boys Hockey team earned a trip to the Division 3 North sectional finals last Saturday afternoon with a thrilling 1-0 win over Lowell Catholic last Saturday afternoon in a quarterfinal matchup at O'Brien Rink in Woburn.

Shawsheen was led to victory by a sensational performance in net by senior goalie Matt Curran of Wilmington. Curran made 29 saves to earn his sixth shutout of the season, including 13 third period saves and some huge stops down the stretch to propel the Rams to victory. Shawsheen got the game winning goal from senior defenseman Ryan Capraro of Wilmington with 9:32 left in the third period.

Capraro, who was assisted on the winning goal by Alex Mosca and Ryan Collins, made a great individual effort to score the goal, making a great rush up ice and then splitting Lowell Catholic's defense while breaking in clean and scoring on a great forehand shot. With the win, No. 4 seed Shawsheen improved to 14-6-1 on the season and moved on to play Bedford in the sectional semi-finals on Wednesday night at the Chelmsford Forum at 7:10. No. 9 Bedford (11-8-3) upset No. 1 Lowell in the quarterfinals on Saturday with a 2-1 overtime victory. The winner will advance to the sectional final on Saturday at Stoneham Arena at 4:30 against the winner of the Marblehead/Swampscott game in Wednesday's other semi-final.

Shawsheen is familiar with Bedford, having dropped a 4-1 decision to them back on January 19 in Bedford. Bedford, who advanced all the way to last year's sectional final before being eliminated by Wayland, is led on offense by senior forward Anthony Lespasio, who has 20 goals and 18 assists on the season for a team high 38 points.

Senior forward Sean Isnor (14-21-35), and sophomore forward Brendan Flynn (8-13-21) are other top scorers for Bedford.

Wrestling

Shawsheen Tech's Devonn Pratt earned a sixth place finish at this past weekend All New England Wrestling championships held at the Providence Civic Center, completing a tremendous season and career for the senior.

Pratt started his weekend on Friday with a pair of wins, pinning Kameron Bradshaw of New Milford, Connecticut in 3:23, and taking an 8-2 decision over Vermont state champion Dylan Shattuck.

Pratt came back on Saturday with a 17-4 major decision over Erik Travers of Cumberland, Rhode Island to advance to the semi-finals of the tournament, where he was finally stopped by Connecticut state champion Sam Odell of South Windsor, Connecticut by a score of 3-2.

Pratt then dropped two more tough decisions in the consolation bracket, dropping a 4-1 decision to Fritz Hoehn of North Andover and a 7-6 battle to Lucas Muntz of Conard, Connecticut in the fifth place match.

Above, Shawsheen Tech's Ryan Capraro makes a terrific move against the Lowell Catholic defense and breaks in to score the first and only goal of the game, but it was all the Rams would need to win. And below, Phil Mills carries the puck during the same game. (photos by JoeBrownphotos.com).

better times and place finishes.

The fifth member of the team is junior Kelly Hartsough, who was involved when the Wildcats won the Division 3 State Relay Meet earlier this season.

This wraps up an incredible season for the relay team. Besides winning the state relay meet, they also finished second at the Division 3 State Meet and fifth at the All-State Meet and through that they broke the school's all-time record with their personal combined time from Saturday's meet.

"I'm so glad I got to run with Cassie, Alex, Michelle, and Kelly over this season," said Alatalo. "The relay is always a fun race to run, and seeing our time get faster and faster all season was great too. Last year, the team went to all states as well, but we beat even that time by about eight seconds and places probably ten places above that, so year to year and through the season we've only been getting better, which is all you can really ask for on a relay team. We've all gotten along really well, too, so even when the practices were only us four and the alternates, it was still fun.

"There's no other event I would have rather gone to all states or New England's for, and there's no other team I'd rather go there with. I'm also sure that the returning team next year will do just as great, and hopefully go to New England's again."

Alatalo ran the second leg on Saturday, following Bischoff. The two of them have become tremendous athletes. Alatalo was one of the top goal scorers on the field hockey team this past fall and Bischoff was the soccer team's lethal goal scorer helping the Lady Wildcats reach the Division 2 North Sectional Finals and now she's the lead-off leg for the 11th best 4x400 relay team in all of New England.

"I ran my hardest and just kept telling myself that this was my last race of the year and I needed to go all out," said Bischoff. "We broke the school record which is unbelievable. We could not have gotten there without our entire team including Rachael, Kelley, Cassie and Michelle. Finishing eleventh in New England was amazing and was a great accomplishment that I couldn't have accomplished without my teammates."

Alatalo said that Bischoff gave the entire team a huge lift by running such a great lead-off leg, but added that she felt like she didn't run her best split and that was the furthest from the truth.

"We had a very good start with Alex's leg, and then it was my turn," she said. "I didn't feel as nervous when I was actually running, but seeing people start to pass me was a strange and unsettling feeling for me. In our league, we usually get a huge lead during the relay and keep it the whole race, so getting passed was very different. I handed the baton to Michelle and finished my leg feeling like I had messed up. But when the race was over, I looked up at the scoreboard and realized that we ran faster than ever on Saturday.

"And as much as we improved, the teams that were with us ran much faster than they were seeded, so there was nothing to feel bad about when they passed me. This last race was actually a solid one for us, and we ended the season with a personal best time for our team and a new school record, which is nothing to be ashamed of."

The lone senior on the team is Michelle Barnes, who missed the first half of the indoor track season after an injury at the end of the cross country season. She was the third leg and she explained what it's like to actually participate in the gruesome 400-meter race.

"The 4x400 relay is a great race to run because it's got this great sense of accomplishment," she said. "The race itself is tough to run - two laps around the track, which you basically have to sprint the entire time but also pace yourself so you don't lose steam before handing off or finishing - so being able to do so well in it is definitely a source of pride. It also brings a sense of team accomplishment; we are a team within a team, and you get close to the girls you run with."

When she was on the disabled list at the start of the season, Barnes really didn't know if and when she would return and if she could contribute to the team, never mind the relay team. That was tough for her especially since she's the only senior of the group.

"I was afraid I would miss out on my last chance to compete in winter, so coming back meant a lot to me," she said. "We have all done really well for the entire season, and I couldn't be more proud of our performance, or more grateful for having Alex, Rachel, and Cassie as the girls I got to share this experience with. They are all amazing runners and great people as well, and I wish them all the best for their senior year season. I hope I'll be reading about them going to nationals next year."

The fourth member of the squad is another junior Cassie Grasso, who is also in the middle of a big athletic year. She was also a member of the soccer team in the fall, and this indoor track season, she set a school record in the 300 (43:60) and as part of this relay team.

"It was such an honor to make it to the New England in the first place," she said. "No one thought the little team from Wilmington could actually do it, but we knew we could. With coming in second at states, fifth in All-States, and 11th in New England's is such an accomplishment. We beat our personal best time, and have the school record with the time of 4:05:55.

"This race has brought us together as friends and we proved that we are among the best in New England. I cannot wait until next season to run with these girls again and come back faster and stronger to beat our best time and become a threat to everyone in New England."

Helbert overcomes major obstacles to complete Alcatraz Triathlon

By BRENDAN FOLEY
Sports Correspondent

Yvonne Helbert has returned home from the annual 'Escape From Alcatraz Triathlon', having triumphed over insurmountable-seeming odds to complete the race, which starts off by having competitors dive off a boat into the San Francisco Belle for a 1.5 mile swim. Once ashore, the competitors are then faced with an 18-mile bike ride and an eight-mile run. These two final courses take place over a constantly-shifting variety of terrains and elevations. The final leg of the running segment concludes at Fort Point, beneath the Golden Gate Bridge.

And the Wilmington native somehow manage to complete all three sections of the event at a time of 3:32, which is very impressive considering all of the obstacles she endured.

Helbert had previously expressed nervous feelings about the running portion of the race, feeling that this was not her strongest suit. Come this past Sunday, she found that the running might very well be the easiest thing to contend with especially with the first portion of the event, the swim.

"The swim was a little intense," she said. "There were six-foot swells in the ocean. Basically every turn of the head was a mouthful of water."

A preview of the course a couple days prior to the race itself had prepared Helbert for some of the ocean's intensity, but the actual height and power of the waves was a huge shock to the system. Still, she managed to power through the pounding waves to make it to the shore. Not everyone was so lucky. A 46-year old man named Ross Ehinger of Austin, Texas, suffered a cardiac arrest almost immediately after jumping into the water and was later pronounced dead. He was the first casualty that the Escape From Alcatraz has claimed in its three-decade history. Helbert stated, and a San Francisco Chronicle article confirmed, that over 150 swimmers were retrieved from the water by race officials, such was the force and chill of the San Francisco waters. This is almost triple the number of participants who require assistance during an average year.

The people still in the race were unknowing of all of these larger developments. Helbert was only made aware of the severity of the situation the next day. To her, the moment's focus was centered on getting through the water.

"There was one point where I turned around and looked back at the boat and I was like, 'I don't know if I can do this,'" Helbert said. "Then I realized that I just kind of had to settle down and just go for it. Once I relaxed and got into the groove of it, it was OK. But there was some panic there, at the beginning."

After feeling unease during several intense moments of the swim, those feelings stuck with her during the 18-mile bike ride, which proved to have a devastating mental tions in the world," she said. "So now you're going down a hill and it's really bumpy."

With two-thirds of the triathlon completed, Helbert needed to get her legs going for the eight mile run, which she said all along was her weakest event.

"The run was crazy. It was a lot of fun. It was on every surface imaginable," she said. "At one point we had to run in this tunnel and you didn't duck your head, you would've gotten knocked out. It was bizarre."

As she entered the final stretch of the race, Helbert was buoyed by giving and receiving verbal and emocomponent that only compounded the exhaustion the racers were already feeling.

"The bike was intense," she said. "So right when you thought you were at the top of a hill, it went up some more."

Things did not get any easier for the cyclists when they finally reached the decline.

"What were even worse were the downhill," she said. "I looked down at my speedometer at one point and I was going 37 miles per hour."

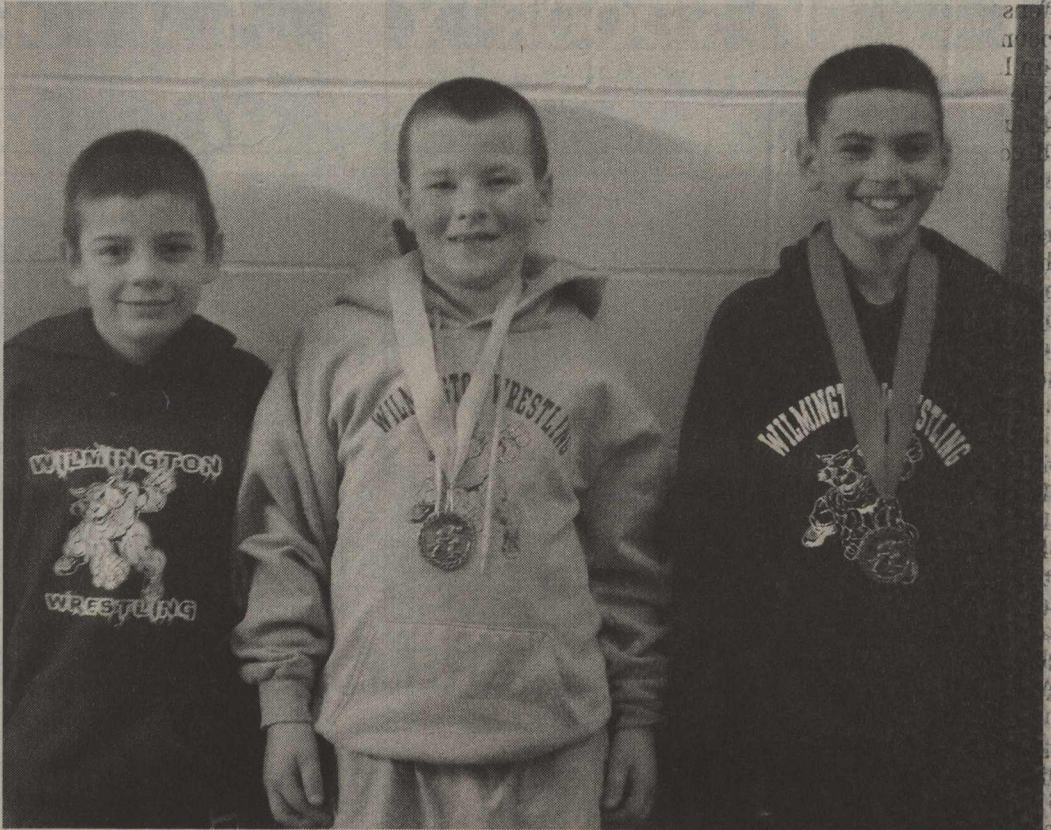

Describing the feeling, Helbert laughed at the incredible speeds and dangers that she encountered in the race.

"And some of the roads weren't in the best conditional support to other racers. When she crossed the finish line, her extended family, including her mother, husband, daughter, and others, were all waiting to greet her. Once she passed the finish line, and having passed through an ordeal of incredible physical and emotional duress, Helbert realized exactly what she had just accomplished.

"It's one of the most difficult triathlons in the world and I did it," she said. "I mean, that's a lot. And to know that you can push yourself to those limits, I don't know. I find it fun."

Youth Wrestlers going to New England

The Wilmington Youth Wrestling program is proud to announce that three members of its team placed at the youth wrestling finals held this past weekend in Salem, Mass. The three wrestlers include, Michael Hersom (left), who finished in third place in his respective weight class, Jerry Copson (middle) who finished in second place, and Stephen Smolinski (right), who finished in third place. The three of them will be moving on to the New England tournament in Lowell, MA on Saturday, March 9th. (courtesy photo).

Seventh Grade Hoop team finish undefeated

The Wilmington 7th Grade Boys Blue Travel basketball team recently put the finishing touches on their perfect regular season. The team won its final six games of the regular season to finish at 18-0.

The six game stretch started off with a 61-33 win over Windham, New Hampshire. Graham Smith led all scorers with 23 points. After that came a 56-30 victory over Pelham, New Hampshire. Andrew Almeida scored nine points and Avery Bradley played his usual suffocating defense. Three days later, Wilmington topped Tewksbury 58-43 as Smith, Almeida, Chris Grecco and Kellan Hardy had four points each in the spread out offensive attack.

The following game was a 65-37 win over Timberlane, New Hampshire. Having only eight players dressed for this game Wilmington needed everyone to contribute and they did. Matt Amentola led the way with 18 points, followed by Andrew Pearson and Chris Grecco each with ten each. Graham Smith had nine points, Travis Haines with eight, Mason Vega six and Joey Rebeiro with four. Although Kellan Hardy didn't score in this game, he was instrumental in all phases of the game.

With two games remaining the Wildcats would have to go through two of the best teams in the division. First they would have to face Salem currently in second place. This game would mirror their first encounter. The Wildcats would start very quick and play an outstanding first half of basketball taking a 35-16 lead. Eight of the ten players would figure in on the first half scoring with Graham Smith leading the way with ten points.

Salem wasn't going away quietly. They scored 35 points in the second half matching Wilmington's out-

Tewksbury Youth Boys Hoop Travel teams enter playoffs

The regular season has come to a close and after 31 games, and the Tewksbury 7th Grade White Boys Travel Basketball team finished with a record of 14-17. The in-league record of 7-11 placed this team tied for sixth place with a good chance to make some noise in the playoffs.

There have been tremendous individual performances throughout the year as this group has learned to be unselfish and work as a team. Scott Mazzapica was the team leader throughout the year as he led the players in several categories with 260 points, 60 blocked shots and 219 rebounds. Mazzapica also is part of the formidable threesome including Tyler Wilson and Joe Dulock. Their lockdown defense has allowed the team to gain some wins and also keep some losses close.

One of the neat things about this group is it is a collection from six different teams the previous year. It allowed each of the players to bring their own unique skills to this team and it has really allowed them to grow. Joe Dulock just loves to work hard. His rebounding on both ends of the court made this team go (65 points, 21 assists and led the team with 38 steals). Tyler Wilson plays with his heart on his sleeve. He seems to find a way to contribute whatever the team needs that day. Some days it was scoring, some days it was rebounds and it was always tough defense (117 points, 63 rebounds, 30 steals and a team-leading 35 assists).

Kyle Obst has been draining outside shots all season and comes up with a lot of steals (176 points, 15 blocks, 24 rebounds and 33 steals). Brendan Studley is the guy who brings it all together, helping this team gel (128 points, 60 rebounds and 15 steals). Braden Hiltz just finds a way to leave it on the court on every play (83 points and 19 assists). His twin brother Blake Hiltz is able to defend the short quick guards or the super tall centers, and his grit and determination allow him to play much bigger than his size (40 points and 36 rebounds).

Anthony Lucibello helped on the boards and defending bigger players and scoring finishing with 106 points and 66 rebounds. Alex Papageorgio brings an infectious energy and can-do attitude. He never quits and his defense this season was great (47 points, 7 assists, 11 rebounds and 10 steals). Alex Benning is quick and has the smoothest shot on the team. He is quick and his explosiveness really makes this team tough to beat finishing with 41 points, 13 rebounds and 17 steals. Nolan Kavanaugh missed much of the season with a broken arm. He has returned with a vengeance and has brought a much needed outside presence and tough defense to the team and finished with 18 points, 13 rebounds and 6 steals.

This team won their play-in game vs. Wakefield on Thursday night 37-30. It was a typical game for this squad with great defense and timely offense. Every player on the roster scored. The team had 17 steals and only eight turnovers. Saturday, as the 7th seed, Tewksbury played the No. 2 seed Salem. In the end Salem came away with the 43-37 win.

Tewksbury 5 White

Tewksbury 5 White saw their season come to an abrupt end on Saturday as they fell to Andover 49-38. Tewksbury fell behind early 8-0 but battled back and took a 26-19 lead into the break. The Redmen came out ice cold in the second half as they again gave up the first eight points of the half. Tewksbury was within striking distance with a minute to go but Andover was able to pad their lead during desperation time.

Despite the loss, Tewksbury should be commended for a fantastic season. All players gave it their all the entire season and steadily improved their play. Congratulations to Chris Antonelli, Max Cummings, Garrett Kingston, Nolan Timmons, Santino Garofalo, Thomas Barinelli, Nicky Iannacci, Evan Mantel, Tyler Keough, Aidan Doherty and Brodie Tirrell.

Junior Summaries

Wizards 21, Celtics 18

The Wizards held on for a big playoff win against a tough Celtics team. Robbie Kintis led the Wizards with five points, Diego Montiero, Harrison Graczyk, Logan Teixeira each had four points and Ian Tacey and Will Andela contributed two points each. The Wizards started the game strong with 8 points in the first quarter.

The Celtics came back to tie in the third quarter but the Wizards pulled away in the early part of the fourth quarter. The Wizards held off a late surge by the Celtics with some great defense by Connor McFadyen, Colin Fullerton, Ryan Hunt and Cam Cimmino.

put from the first half. The Wildcats were able to battle down the stretch and secure the big victory by a score of 58-51.

With a win in this the last game of the season the Wildcats will have gone undefeated. Dracut holding down third place behind Salem came to town with upset on their minds. In a well-played physical match up, the Wildcats persevered and won the game 56-38. Amentola led the team in scoring with 16 points, Graham Smith right behind him with 14 and Kellan Hardy with eight.

Congratulations to all the players and coaches for a perfect season.

Playoffs

Wilmington stayed perfect on the season winning all three games in the playoffs to take home the Merrimack Valley Youth Basketball Championship title, which included a 55-40 victory over Pelham in the title game.

In their first playoff game, the Wildcats beat an improved Chelmsford team 50-35. The Wildcats were led by Graham Smith with 15 points, while, Travis Haines and Andrew Almeida each scored eight.

The second game of the day had Wilmington on all cylinders, throttling Dracut 54-27. In the first couple of minutes of play, Mason Vega, Graham Smith and Danny Gracia set the tone by registering six blocks, leading their team to a 24-15 first half lead.

The Wildcats clamped down even more in the second half holding Dracut to just 12 points. This was a team victory all the way, with all eleven players scoring points. Leading the way again in the point department was Graham Smith with 16, Danny Gracia with ten, Andrew Pearson and Andrew Almeida with five each. Chris Grecco and Billy McEvoy scored four points each. Kellan Hardy, Joey Rebeiro, Matt Amentola, Travis Haines and Mason Vega, all chipped in with two points apiece.

In the championship win over Pelham, the Wildcats were getting contributions from all of their players. With about eleven minutes played the Wildcats had held Pelham to just two points, and a lead of 18-2. Pelham tried to claw their way back in to the game, finishing the half on an 11-8 run and a score of 26-13.

In the second half, the lead would grow to 34-17, before the Wildcats would go thru their only cold spell of the day. With just over three minutes to play in the game, Coach Vega would have to take a timeout. The lead had dwindled to five points 42-37, but then the Wildcats would respond with a 13-3 run to finish off the game.

Defensively everyone contributed. Some of the highlights were: Joey Rebeiro taking a charge late in the game. Mason Vega blocking one shot after another and Travis Haines with one rebound after another. Billy McEvoy forced to cover players who were much bigger than him throughout the entire game.

Leading the way offensively was Matt Amentola with 13 points. Graham Smith and Danny Gracia each scored ten points. Chris Grecco, Andrew Almeida and Andrew Pearson contributed with six points each. Kellan Hardy and Joey Rebeiro chipped in with two points each.

The Championship roster includes: Chris Grecco, Graham Smith, Kellan Hardy, Joey Rebeiro, Billy McEvoy, Matthew Amentola, Danny Gracia, Travis Haines, Andrew Almeida, Andrew Pearson and Mason Vega. The head coach is Andre Vega and his assistant is Keith Pearson.

Tips to Save Time on Lawn Maintenance

(StatePoint) If it feels as though your entire weekends are spent mowing, trimming and watering your lawn, there are steps you can take to speed up your lawn care routine.

Automate

How many times have you forgotten to water your lawn -- or worse yet, over-watered it? You can eliminate the guesswork (and the grunt work of dragging hoses around your yard) by installing an automatic sprinkler and drip irrigation system that is based on your specific landscape, characteristics and geographical region.

A well-designed system ensures peak efficiency, which means you're only watering your lawn when necessary. This is great for your grass and plants -- and for your pocketbook.

New technologies are making it even easier to optimize a watering plan for your lawn, as they can be controlled from the comfort of your computer or from a handheld remote you can take into your backyard. For example, the Irritrol PCW Control system is a software system that allows you to set up an irrigation calendar for different areas of your property. This smart technology can even connect to the Internet and retrieve the day's weather for your zip code, and change watering time and frequency accordingly. Homeowners can visit www.irritrol.com to learn more.

Maintain Your Equipment

Keeping your mower properly maintained will save you time all season long. For walking mowers, a good maintenance routine is as follows:

- Carefully check blades for sharpness.
- Make sure the cutting deck is clear of clippings. Cooking spray on the underside of the deck will make a new mower easier to clean.
- Check pull cords to ensure they aren't frayed.
- Check that attachments are connected and working properly.
- If you use your mower infrequently, fill the tank with a fuel stabilizer.
- Periodically change the oil and perform air filter maintenance.

Less is More

It's tempting to cut the grass as frequently as do your neighbors. But where mowing is concerned, less is more. You can prevent weeds from taking over your lawn by letting your grass grow out a bit, as longer grass supports a deeper root system. If you cut more than one-third of the grass length, you will have clumps of clippings that lie on top of the lawn, slower decomposition, and a less attractive, bristly appearing lawn

Keeping grass longer also allows it greater surface area to carry out photosynthesis, which results in healthier plants. In addition, taller grass grows slower than shorter grass. You can use this fact to eliminate up to 20 percent of the mowing you do annually.

Reading's Camerlin helps transport the sick Angel Flight NE

By RYAN LAROCHE

Over the past six or so years, the economy has affected everyone from business owners to the average citizen to even entire communities. But the groups most affected have been non-profit organizations that depend entirely on outside money from donations and fundraising. One such group that has been hit hard is Angel Flight Northeast.

The non-profit organization's mission is "to facilitate access to healthcare by arranging and providing free air transportation in private aircraft by volunteer pilots so that patients throughout the northeast can access life-saving medical care and clinical trials that is not readily available in their geographic area."

Unfortunately, with rising healthcare costs and lowering salaries, AFN has never been more needed by people throughout New England, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania. Sadly, the same issues that affect patients in need of transportation have affected Angel Flight. Money is sparse and AFN is reaching out to people all throughout the northeast who can help. The organization is looking to raise $900,000 this year.

Founded by Reading resident Larry Camerlin in 1996, AFN has scheduled more than 60,000 flights, an average of 100 flights per week. They've provided 65,000 children and adults with free air transportation to medical care by both private aircraft and commercial airlines.

Angel Flight's 1,000 volunteer pilots have flown nearly 10 million miles. Those pilots have flown patients to 189 different medical facilities in 33 states. Many of the patients are located in Massachusetts, from North Andover to Woburn to Watertown.

Approximately 30 percent of the patients are children suffering from life-threatening illnesses such as cancer, severe burns or crippling diseases.

The group is completely non-profit and everything is donated - fuel, aircrafts, time - leaving zero cost to the patient or the family. This is why Angel Flight is in search of donations, because although it costs nothing for the patient(s) to fly, it costs the organization $300 to coordinate each flight. If AFN does 100 flights a week at $300 a flight, it's easy to see how the cost can add up (more than $1.5M a year.).

Barbara Sica, Marketing and Communications coordinator, said the organization has been using cost-cutting measures to keep its budget manageable. Even still, with the number of people in need of help, a group like Angel Flight can only cut so much before it affects the patients and their families.

Due to many factors - rising healthcare costs, more deadly diseases and a weak economy - Angel Flight has seen the number of patients it serves rise. Sica said they get plenty of return customers. They never turn anyone away.

Many times, she noted, AFN will take people from Maine, Vermont or New Hampshire to Brigham & Women's, Shriners', and Mass. General in Boston or other places like Lahey Health in Burlington.

Angel Flight runs two types of flights: emergency and non-emergency.

Movie Reviews

"JACK THE GIANT SLAYER"

by Paul Feely

"JACK THE GIANT SLAYER" is an old-fashioned family oriented fantasy adventure. "Jack" might not be original, but it's a charming, exciting film that is unashamed of its corniness.

"JACK THE GIANT SLAYER"

GRADE: ***

"Jack the Giant Slayer" is an old-fashioned, family oriented fantasy adventure. Director Bryan Singer captures the spirit of mildly scary family features such as "Jason and the Argonauts" and "The Seventh Voyage of Sinbad." Nicholas Hoult, recently seen in "Warm Bodies," plays the title role, which is much more a retelling of "Jack and the Beanstalk" than "Jack the Giant Slayer."

The traditional fairy tale serves as the foundation for the film, telling the tale of a young man and woman, each from separate social backgrounds, but on parallel paths. Jack (Nicholas Hoult) is an 18-year-old with his head in the clouds. Naive but with a good heart, he lives with his uncle (Christopher Fairbank) in a rundown shack on the edge of the kingdom known as Glouster and longs for adventure. On a trip to town, he not only mistakes the lovely Princess Isabelle (Eleanor Tomlinson) for a commoner but is also duped into taking a bag of magic beans in exchange for his horse.

While Jack has to face the wrath of his uncle, the young lady is forced to contend with her father, King Brahmwell (Ian McShane), who's arranged for her to be married to his most-trusted advisor Roderick (Stanley Tucci, channeling Basil Rathbone).

This does not sit well with her, so she flees the castle that rainy night, only to find herself forced to seek shelter from the storm, at what turns out to be Jack's humble hovel.

Circumstances occur in which the magic beans are accidentally planted, a huge multi-tendrill stalk rapidly grows and poor Isabelle is whisked up beyond the clouds where she finds herself in a realm of exiled giants.

Ordered to rescue her are the leaders of the king's guard, Elmont (Ewan McGregor) and Craue (Eddie Marsan), with Jack, Roderick, his right-hand stooge Wicke (Ewen Bremner) and a handful of soldiers in tow.

The film is surprisingly deep. A captivating back story involving the giants and a magic crown that controls them is told before the film's opening title card appears, while elements of court intrigue are dispensed with in a quick, engaging and clever manner.

It's quite an adventure. Jack and his crew must not only escape from the giants, who are a barbaric and frightening crew, but also a traitor within their ranks who hopes to bend these behemoths to his will for personal gain. Be forewarned that some of the violence is gruesome and you should not get too attached to anyone in the cast. Some unexpected fatalities occur, which only increases the film's tension that Singer effectively maintains with the crisp pace he employs.

"Jack" may not be original, but it is fun. These days, too many makers of big-budget action movies seem so embarrassed by their material, they try to prove there are above it - and the audience - with a snarky attitude. "Jack" is not without a sense of humor, but Singer takes the story at face value, magic beans and all, and the cast plays it straight.

I enjoyed how McGregor casually says, "Tally ho," before leaping into action.

"Jack the Giant Slayer" is Singer's best film since the second "X-Men" movie. It is charming, exciting and unashamed of its corniness.

"SNITCH"

GRADE: **

'Snitch' is a nice surprise. Instead of the usual action movie mayhem, 'Snitch' is an honest exercise in filmmaking - good, solid and functional.

The script is loosely based on a PBS Frontline documentary that explored a casualty of America's war on drugs: the practice of mandatory minimum sentencing. We see an otherwise straight-arrow teenager who makes a dumb mistake, accepts a FedExed package from a sort-of friend, then gets busted by the Drug Enforcement Administration for possession of a dealer's worth of ecstasy.

His sentence is 10 years, reducible only if he can "snitch" on someone else, preferably someone on a loftier rung of the drug hierarchy. The kid refuses, partly for ethical reasons and partly for practical ones - he really doesn't know anyone else.

Dwayne Johnson plays the boy's father, John, the owner of a construction company. He approaches the ambitious D.A. (Susan Sarandon) with an offer to hunt up some bad guys on his son's behalf.

If John works as an undercover informant and helps with the arrest of a big drug distributor, his son's sentence will be reduced to a year.

But the stakes get higher when John's undercover work leads him right to the heart of a drug cartel.

Beneath the action, family - the father-son relationship - is the central theme of this movie. Jason has been estranged from his father ever since his parents got a divorce and John started another family. But this crisis brings them closer together and, in a way, John seems to be making up for being an inattentive father by doing everything he can to get his son out of prison.

'Snitch' is a fun, suspenseful action movie that leaves the viewers wondering whether some of the laws we have in place today are the best option.

His latest book, entitled "Surviving 7th Grade" is written from a thirteen year old's point of view of his junior high school years (in Stoneham) during the 1950's.

It focuses on emotions and problems of teenagers of that era but with humor. While there may be more or different issues facing this age group today than then, many things remain unchanged. Don't miss this endearing and

WATER (WOBURN)

"Local residents can expect to continue paying a flat fee for water services, once the city finishes installing residential meters in homes," notes the Woburn edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"During a meeting of the City Council's Infrastructure and Public Lands Committee ..., Mayor Scott Galvin revealed that Ward 2 Alderman Richard Gately and Ward 4 Alderman Michael Anderson are working on an ordinance that would establish a flat fee for water usage.

"Galvin, who is consulting engineering firm Weston & Sampson for suggestions on how to implement the meter program, anticipates meeting with the two aldermen sometime in the next few weeks to finalize the proposal.

"To date, the consultant has prepared a draft ordinance that addresses the concerns of the City Council relative to the installation of water meters," Galvin explained in a memo to the Aldermen. "[W]e have had several meetings to discuss the draft requests for proposals for the acquisition of water meters and water reading infrastructure."

"The city is being forced to install residential water meters by the state's Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). The mandate has generated considerable controversy, especially among City Council members, who worry that the establishment of a metered water program could eventually lead to charges for water based on usage.

"Currently, local residents pay a flat fee of $533 per year for water. Woburn is one of the only communities in the state that have such an arrangement, with most other cities and towns having a usage-based system...."

WATER (TEWKSBURY)

"After the snow fall of the Blizzard of 2013 ... stopped, two Virginia Road residents took to the driveways and fire hydrants of their neighborhood and began clearing snow," notes the Tewksbury "Town Crier."

"Alexander Sousa, age 11, and his sister Sierra Sousa, age 9, shoveled for hours according to neighbor James Duffy.

"They worked hard to shovel out their neighbors and they located and shoveled out the fire hydrant near our house," according to Duffy in an email to Tewksbury Firefighter Richard Hamm, manager of the Fire Department's Adopt-A-Hydrant Program.

"I know the positive interaction with Police and Firefighters as kids has had a long lasting positive effect on my own kids so I appreciate anything you & the TFD can do for Alex & Sierra," Duffy went on to say in his email.

"On Friday, February 15th, Alexander and Sierra were presented with Certificates of Appreciation 'in recognition of the generous act of helping others in the community by clearing snow from neighborhood driveways and fire hydrants after the Blizzard of 2013.'

"The certificates were presented with the cooperation of School Committee Chairperson Kristen Polimeno, Ryan School Principal Kevin McIntyre, and Trahan School Principal Donna Mooney.

"Alexander's 6th Grade Teacher at the Ryan School,

Mrs. Charlaire Melly, allowed Chief Michael Hazel and Deputy Chief Albert Vasas to present his certificate during a break in their classroom activities.

"Trahan Principal Mooney and Sierra's 4th Grade Teacher, Mrs. Jennifer Cote, joined Chief Hazel and Deputy Vasas for her certificate presentation...."

Information on the Adopt-A-Hydrant Program is available at the Fire Department's website: www.tewksbury.net/fire.

MILK (NORTH READING)

According to links via the North Reading Middle School website/news, the theme of North Reading Dining services is 'Simply Good,' an annual promotions program that focuses on nutritious school meals, student wellness, and customer satisfaction.

"Through special events and activities, students learn about the importance of eating healthy, balanced meals, and locally-grown foods. This program was developed by a team of Chartwells food service directors and was has been student tested and approved.

"Simply Good has a culinary focus and emphasizes fresh, wholesome meal options, especially those with fruits, vegetables, whole grains, and lean protein."

And the proof is in the pudding: atop a recent middle school menu, the message reads "A full student lunch includes a choice of protein and grain, up to 1 cup vegetable side dishes, one 1 cup fruit side dishes, and milk. Milk choices include 1% white and skim chocolate."

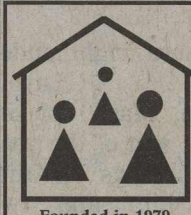

"About the Towns" covers recent events in the 10-town Middlesex East area. Because Middlesex East deadlines are early, please check the front sections of this paper or look on line for up-to-date information about your city or town.

We also welcome original material - please send it to Phyllis Nissen, "About the Towns," Middlesex East Supplement, Box 240, Reading, MA 01867 or to schooltowns@comcast.net.

•MIDDLESEX EAST SPORTS WEEKLY TRIVIA:

Name one of the two states that have never had a school participate in the NCAA Division I men's basketball tournament.

Answer appears elsewhere in this column.

•Sophomore CF Ariana Darcy (Walkill, N.Y.) batted 5 for 8 with seven RBI, three runs, three stolen bases and two home runs as UMass Lowell split with Pfeiffer University, winning 11-1 and falling 7-3 in the nightcap, at the Catawba College Softball Tournament.

With the split, UMass Lowell currently stands at 2-4 overall.

The games were the second and third of the day for the River Hawks, who opened this morning with a 5-1 loss to Catawba College.

Most of Darcy's production came in the opener as she batted 4 for 4 with seven RBI, three runs, three stolen bases and two home runs as UMass Lowell jumped out to a 6-0 lead after three innings.

Sophomore DH Abby Jamieson (Billerica, Mass.) batted 3 for 3 with two runs while junior Ali Ferraro (Kingston, N.Y.) went 2 for 3 with one run and a double. Senior 2B Krista MacKenzie (Ipswich, Mass.) hit 1 for 2 with two runs, two stolen bases, two walks and one RBI.

Freshman P Hailey Terrien (Rochdale, Mass.) took the loss as she allowed two hits, three earned runs and a walk in 1.2 innings. Terrien replaced sophomore P COURTNEY

Athletes & Activities

by Paul Feely

LANFRANCHI (BURLINGTON, MASS.), who scattered six hits, four runs (two earned) and two walks over the first four innings.

•Dominant pitching and a late explosion gave UMass Lowell a doubleheader sweep, 8-2 and 9-1, against Philadelphia University at Diamond Nation in Flemington, N.J.

The River Hawks improved their record to 3-1, Philadelphia University dropped to 1-3.

"We really pitched well," says UMass Lowell Coach Ken Harring. "(Christian) Lavoie set the tone for us in the first game and (Tyler) Toyfair threw the best I've seen him pitch in the second game."

Sophomore righthander Christian Lavoie (Hopkinton, Mass.) picked up his first win of the year going 8.2 innings allowing just six hits and two unearned runs in the opener. The 6-foot 4-inch Lavoie struck out four. He did not walk a batter.

A bases loaded walk to Katsiroubas would give the ball club a lead they would not surrender. A Ricoy single upped the lead to two. A Pat Parker (Merrimack, N.H.) walk and a Matt Sanchez (Sunrise, Fla.) sac fly increased the lead to four. A hit batter and walk added two more runs before SENIOR PAT DEVLIN (TEWKSBURY, MASS.) put an exclamation point on the inning with a two run single to right center making the score 8-1.

After pounding out 11 hits in the first game, the River Hawks had struggled to get the bats going in the nightcap.

The River Hawks broke it open in the seventh. Katsiroubas doubled to center to drive in Devlin who'd opened the inning with a single. Katsiroubas, who'd taken third on a throw to the plate, scored moments later on a Ricoy single. Ricoy scored two outs later on a Sanchez single. 6-0.

UMass Lowell added two in the ninth inning. The first run crossed the plate on a wild pitch, the second on an infield out.

JUNIOR NICK BOUTURES (WILMINGTON, MASS.) closed out game-one striking out the only batter he faced.

•Need some help with the trivia question? The states start with A and M.

•JOE PENDENZA, A JUNIOR FROM WILMINGTON, MASS., and Connor Hellebuyck, a freshman from Commerce, Mich., were each cited at Hockey East announced its weekly honors.

Pendenza was named the Athletic Republic Player of the Week while Hellebuyck was named the Pro Ambitions Rookie of the Week as both played pivotal roles in 3-0 and 3-1 victories over Boston University.

UMass Lowell was named the Hockey East Team of the Week for the fifth time this season.

Pendenza is the second UMass Lowell player named Player of the Week in as many weeks and third this season. Last week, junior F Derek Arnold (Foxboro, Mass.) earned the honor after scoring three goals and assisting on two others in last week's sweep over Massachusetts.

Sophomore F Scott Wilson (Oakville, Ont.) was cited on Jan. 14 following a sweep of Vermont.

The honor marked the fifth time Hellebuyck was recognized this season. He has been named the Rookie of the Week three times and the Defensive Player of the Week twice.

Pendenza compiled two goals and two assists - one of each in both games - in the weekend's sweep. He gave the River Hawks a 2-0 lead in the second period in the 3-0 win and assisted on a power play goal by senior F Riley Wetmore (Swanton, Vt.) shortly after.

On Saturday, Pendenza gave the River Hawks a 3-1 lead with his goal 12:05 into the third period. He also set up a power play goal by Chad Ruhwedel (San Diego, Calif.) to give UMass Lowell a 2-0 cushion midway through the second period.

"Joe Pendenza is playing some of his best hockey so far this year," said head coach Norm Bazin. "He's showing strong maturity both with and without the puck. His offensive contributions will be counted upon heavily as we continue with the stretch run."

Caldo Verde

In the best of recipes featuring fresh ingredients, simplicity is key. Fresh ingredients possess a crisp flavor that no seasoning or marinade can replicate. At the 2012 Newport Food and Wine Festival, Emeril Lagasse, best known from his Food Network show Emeril Live! and token catch phrase "BAM!", shared a part of his fresh ingredient Portuguese heritage. "I grew up eating this soup at least once a week," says Lagasse. Caldo Verde, literally translated "green soup," is a staple in Portuguese cuisine. Featuring vibrantly green fresh kale and chorizo, a cured, smoked pork sausage, Caldo Verde contains only a few simple ingredients that, when combined, transform into a timeless, traditional dish. With the last few lingering weeks of cold weather, thaw out with a warm, hearty and healthy bowl of Caldo Verde.

Ingredients

Difficulty: Easy
Prep Time: 15 minutes
Cook time: 1 1/2 hours
Servings: 4-6
2 tablespoons Olive Oil
1 1/2 cups Yellow Onions, chopped
1 tablespoon Garlic, minced
2 pounds Potatoes, peeled and cubed
9 cups Chicken Stock
1/2 teaspoon Crushed Red Pepper
1/2 pound Chorizo, bite size
1/2 pound Kale
1/4 cup Parsley
1/2 cup cilantro
2 tablespoons Mint
Salt and pepper to taste

INSTRUCTIONS

1. Heat olive oil and sauté onion and garlic until they are soft.
2. Add potatoes, chicken stock, and minced crushed red pepper, and bring to a boil.
3. Season with salt and pepper, reduce heat to a simmer and cover. Cook the soup until the potatoes are fork tender. Roughly one hour.
4. Roughly chop the Kale, or use a food processor
5. After the potatoes are cooked, add the chorizo, kale and spices and cook for 15 minutes.
6. Season the pot with salt and pepper before serving.
7. Serve hot with crusty bread.

Angels S-1

Emergency flights are reserved for "persons who need to visit critically ill or injured family members or patients needing organ transplants and organ donations." Non-emergency flights are for medically stable and ambulatory patients and their families.

Giving thanks

A number of patients have expressed their gratitude to Angel Flight:

Winnifred said, "I am so extremely grateful for these trips . . . You are literally saving lives by this amazing work."

Joel and Tolyn said about the volunteer pilots, "How could we ever forget you. Whenever we needed you, you were there with support and big smiles."

Amy, the mother of a young girl helped by Angel Flight, said, "What you gave us was so much more than a flight to medical care. It gave (my daughter) something to smile about and brighten up her world. With all of the blood work, needles and biopsy's she has been through in the last two years, not to mention the countless number of doctor visits we make all through the year, it really gave her something special."

Angel Flight has been fortunate to have sponsors such as Hasbro, Jet Blue, HP, Reading Co-op, Terrafugia, WBZ, and Cape Air just to name a few. The group also has donation options such as the Adopt-an-Angel Flight and Partners for Life programs.

With the Adopt-an-Angel Flight program, for every $300 you donate, you can adopt one flight up to 50 flights for $15,000. Thanks to those programs, Angel Flight recently helped a couple receive lifesaving medical care during the birth of their child.

According to the Angel Flight NE website, "In November 2011, Colleen and Michael anxiously arrived at their ultrasound to meet their unborn child. A joyous event that is typically filled with happiness became one of uncertainty and despair. The ultrasound revealed their unborn child had a rare congenital heart condition involving four defects of the heart referred to as 'Tetralogy of Fallot.'

AFN VOLUNTEER PILOT BOB TAKES EIGHT-YEAR OLD NASEAN to one of the many hospitals Angel Flight visits. The organization has existed since 1996 helping more than 65,000 children and adults with serious illnesses.

"Recommending they seek further consultation immediately, the couple turned to various teams of physicians receiving multiple options for the couple to consider. Colleen found an online support group where another parent recommended a renowned specialist at Lucille Packard Children's Hospital in Stanford, CA. After multiple long-distance consultations, it was determined the couple would need to travel to California to await the arrival of their child so that specialized medical care was immediately available to the baby at birth. But how would they get there?"

"After exploring various travel solutions, it became apparent the arrangements would be costly. Hearing the family's situation, someone recommended Angel Flight.

Immediately following the family's first call, AFN coordinated free air transportation for the expectant parents to California on Jet Blue Airways so proper medical resources were available when their unborn child arrived.

"Born last March, Teagan has already endured more than most will in a life-time. Additional procedures are scheduled for her in June with more anticipated in the years to come. Angel Flight NE will be there for her and young parents as long as they need us."

To donate to Angel Flight Northeast (or if you're a prospective patient), visit the organization's website at www.angelflightne.org or call 800-549-9980. You can also visit AFN on Facebook at www.facebook.com/angelflightnortheast.

Sica said anyone who needs help just has to call and ask. "We are here to serve anybody who needs our services," Sica said.

Flights run any time - morning, noon and night.

Two rooms fill the rest of the left side. The Kent's front bedroom is larger and boasts a wide closet. The second room could be used as a study or another bedroom. A pull-down ladder there provides handy attic access.

Economical Kent charms with simplicity

People who feel drawn to simplicity will find much to appreciate in the Kent. Call it a cabin, a bungalow or a vacation retreat. Whichever designation you chose, this home is charming. And being small, it's as economical to build as it is to maintain.

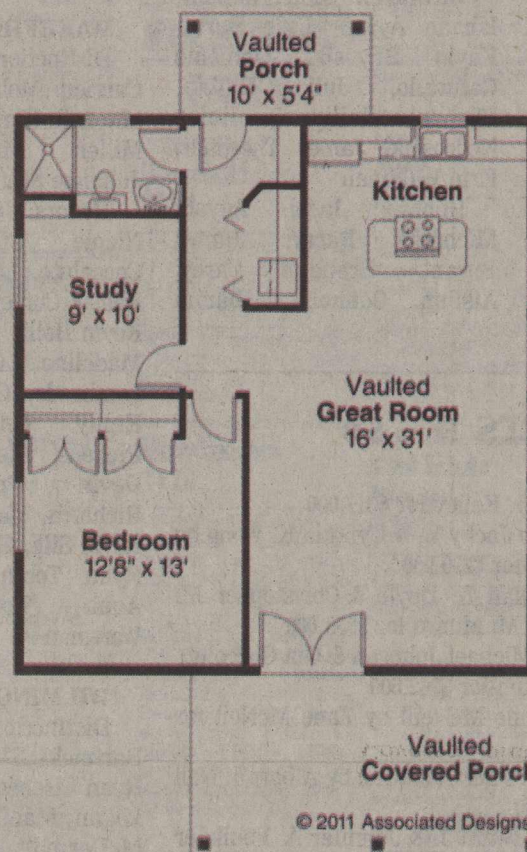

Slender wooden posts support and define a long front porch that wraps around to the right. Exposed rafter tails along the roof's edge create visual interest there, while cedar shake shingles give a rustic texture to the exterior, above the batt and board siding.

Entering, you step through one of the two atrium doors into a surprisingly large and sunny vaulted great room. Windows line much of the side wall, and a kitchen with a large work island fills the rear. If a wood or gas flame stove is part of your dream, the front corner by the door is an ideal location.

Standing at the kitchen's four-burner stove, you can easily serve up hot soups,

THIS CHARMINGLY SIMPLE, bungalow home plan, is a compact cabin/vacation retreat that covers all the basics. Slender posts support a large porch that wraps around to the right. Surprisingly large, sunny vaulted great room has kitchen with work island.
